An eyeball, big, yellowish, distinctly inhuman, stares raptly between wooden slats, part of a large crate. The eye darts from side to side, alert as hell.

FROM INSIDE THE CRATE,

we get glimpses of what's on the other side of those wooden slats -- jungle foliage, MEN with rifles, searing searchlights. The view is herky-jerky as the crate is lowered into the thick of the foliage. A tarp hanging over the crate flaps wildly.

IN THE JUNGLE,

the crate THUDS to the jungle floor and the ropes that held it aloft are unhitched and drop like so many dead snakes.

A legend tries to place us --

ISLA NUBLAR
120 MILES WEST OF COSTA RICA

-- but to us it's still the middle of nowhere.

It's quiet for a second. A ROAR rises up from the jungle, deafening. The trees shake as something very, very large plows ahead through them, right at us. Every head gathered in this little clearing snaps, turning in the direction of the sound as it bursts through the trees.

It's a bulldozer. It drops its scoop and pushes forward into the back end of the crate, shoving it across the jungle floor toward an impressive fenced structure that towers over an enclosed section of thick jungle. There's a guard tower at one end of this holding pen that makes it look a little like San Quentin.

A door slides open in the pen, making a space ⁵⁷as big as the end of the wooden crate.

The bulldozer stops as the crate THUDS up against the edge of the opening. A series of warning lights on the rim of the pen light up, showing contact has been made. The movement has agitated whatever is inside the crate, and the whole thing shivers as GROWLS and SNAPS come from inside.

Nobody moves for a second. A grim-faced guy who seems to be in charge (ROBERT MULDOON, although we don't know it yet) gestures and a WORKER jumps on top of the crate. The Worker grabs hold of handles on either side of the top of the end panel.

The searchlights are trained on the door. The Riflemen throw the bolts on their rifles and CRACK their stun guns, sending arcs of current CRACKING through the air.

The Worker lifts the panel, which rises with a GRINDING sound.

1

But it gets stuck halfway up. The Worker pulls harder, and all at once, with a ROAR from inside the crate, the panel flies out of his hands and SMACKS into his chest, knocking him clear off the crate.

Now everything happens at once. The Worker THUDS to the jungle floor, the crate jerks away from the mouth of the holding pen at least a foot and a half, the warning lights on the crate flash, an alarm BUZZER sounds -- -- and a claw SLASHES out from inside the crate. It sinks into the ankle of the Worker, dragging him toward the dark mouth between the crate and the pen. The Worker SCREAMS and paws the dirt, leaving long claw marks as he is rapidly dragged toward the crate.

MULDOON
FIRE FIRE EVERYBODY NOW NOW NOW NOW
NOW -- !!

The wild arcs of currents from the stun gun flash and CRACK all around, but in a second --

-- the Worker is gone.

MORE SPARKS FLY as dozens of shirtless WORKERS claw and scrape at a rocky mountainside that is the site of an extensive mining operation. The work is all done by hand, pick and shovel instead of dynamite and bulldozer. Another legend:

MANO DE DIOS AMBER MINE DOMINICAN REPUBLIC.

On the hillside, JUAN ROSTAGNO, thirtyish, Costa Rican, a smart-looking guy in worker clothes, is in conversation with DONALD GENNARO, forty, in a city man's idea of hiking clothes and a hundred dollar haircut.

GENNARO
What is this, Rostagno? We're facing a $20 million lawsuit from the family of that injured worker and Hammond couldn't even be bothered to see me?

He sends his apologies. He needed to leave early to be by his daughter's side. She's getting a divorce.

GENNARO

We'd be well advised to deal with this situation now. The insurance company thinks --

A WORKER hurries up to them and busts into the conversation, breathless.

WORKER

Mosquito! Encontramos otra!

ROSTAGNO Muestrame!

The Worker turns and scrambles back up the hillside. Rostagno follows, calling back over his shoulder to Gennaro.

ROSTAGNO (cont'd)
They found another one!

Gennaro struggles to keep up. A lot of other MINERS are heading toward the cave now too, taking up the cry of "Mosquito!"

2A INT CAVE DAY

2A

ROSTAGNO and GENNARO follow the WORKER into the dark, dripping cave, where at least a dozen other WORKERS are gathered in a tight circle, staring at something intently.

GENNARO
-- the underwriters think the accident raises some very serious safety questions about the park, and they're making the investors very anxious. I had to promise we'd conduct a thorough inspection.

ROSTAGNO
Hammond hates inspections. They slow everything down.

Rostagno fights his way to the center of the group. One of the Workers hands him something and Rostagno examines it carefully. It's a chunk of amber, a shiny yellow rock about the size of a half dollar.

GENNARO
Yeah, well, having his funding pulled would slow him down a lot more. If two experts sign off on the island, the insurance guys'll back off. I already got Ian Malcolm, but they think he's too trendy. They want Alan Grant.

ROSTAGNO
Grant? You'll never get him out of Montana.

With the light pouring through it, the amber is translucent, and we can see there is something actually inside this strange stone --

5 EXT THE DIG DAY

5

Two hands skillfully CHIP chunks of foreign matter from the whitish, rounded arcs of fossilized bone, as two more hands dust the bone clean with an artist's camel brush over a two-foot square of rough, dried soil that has been carefully excavated.

GRANT

(thoughtfully)

Four complete skeletons...such a small area...the same time horizon--

ELLIE

They died together?

GRANT

The taphonomy sure looks that way.

ELLIE

If they died together, they lived together. Suggests some kind of social order.

DR. ALAN GRANT, mid-thirties, a ragged-looking guy with intense concentration you wouldn't want to get in the way of, carefully examines a bone section, part of a claw, that crumbles free from the rest of the skeleton.

DR. ELLIE SATTLER, working with him, leans in close and studies it too. She paints the exposed bone with rubber cement. Ellie is in her late twenties, athletic-looking. There's an impatience about Ellie, as if nothing in life happens quite fast enough for her.

Her face is almost pressed up against his, she's sitting so close.

GRANT (cont'd)

They hunted as a team. The dismembered tenontosaurus bones over there - that's lunch. But what killed our raptors in a lakebed, in a bunch like this? We better come up with something that makes sense.

ELLIE

A drought. The lake was shrinking--

GRANT

(excited)

That's good. That's right! They died around a dried-up puddle! Without fighting each other. This is looking good.

From the bottom of the hill a voice SHOUTS to them:

VOLUNTEER (o.s.)

Dr. Grant! Dr. Sattler! We're ready to try again!

Grant SIGHS and sits up, stretching out his back.

GRANT

I hate computers.

He shoves the claw absent-mindedly into his pocket and he and Ellie walk toward the source of the voice. As they walk, we get our first look at the badlands. Exposed outcroppings of crumbling limestone stretch for miles in every direction, not a tree or a bush in sight.

In the dig itself, the ground is checkered with excavations everywhere. There's a base camp with five or six teepees, a flapping mess tent, a few cars, a flatbed truck with wrapped fossils loaded on it, and a mobile home. There are a dozen VOLUNTEERS of all ages at work in various places around the dig. The Volunteers are from all walks of life, dinosaur buffs. Three or four of them have their CHILDREN with them, and the kids run around, like in a giant sandbox.

Grant, Ellie and a Volunteer walk down the hill. Grant spots a KID kicking dirt into one of the digs. He notices and frowns.

GRANT

What's that kid doing there?

(to the kid)

What are you doing there!? Excuse me! Can you just back off? This is very fragile! Are you out of your mind? Get off that and go find your parents!

(to Ellie)

Did you see what he just did?!

The kid stomps away, pissed off.

KID

Asshole.

GRANT

(to Ellie)

Why do they have to bring their kids?!

ELLIE

You could hire your help. But there's four summers work here, with money for one. And you say it's a learning experience, sort of a vacation, and you get volunteers with kids.

He and Ellie arrive to where several VOLUNTEERS are clustered around a computer terminal that's set up on a table in a small tent, its flaps lashed open.

GRANT

(to the Volunteer)

Ready to give it a shot, Jerry?

A LITTLE GIRL moves a little too close to the machine.

ELLIE

Want to watch the computer?

Ellie quietly moves her out of Grant's way, to a place she can see.

VOLUNTEER

Thumper ready?

MAN

Ready.

VOLUNTEER

Fire.

The VOLUNTEER throws a switch on a machine that looks a bit like a floor buffer. The whole thing hops up into the air as it drives a soft lead pellet into the earth with tremendous force. There is a dull THUD, the earth seems to vibrate, and all eyes turn to the computer screen --

ELLIE

How long does this usually take?

VOLUNTEER

It should be immediate return. You shoot the radar into the ground, the bone bounces it back....

The screen suddenly comes alive, yellow contour lines tracing across it in three waves, detailing a dinosaur skeleton.

The Volunteers CHEER and slap hands.

VOLUNTEER

This new program's incredible! A few more years of development and you don't have to dig any more!

Grant looks at him, and his expression is positively wounded.

GRANT

Well, where's the fun in that?

VOLUNTEER

It looks a little distorted, but I don't think that's the computer.

ELLIE

(shakes her head)

Postmortem contraction of the posterior neck ligaments.

(to Grant)

Velociraptor?

GRANT

Yes. Good shape, too. Five, six feet high. I'm guessing nine feet long. Look at the --

He points to a part of the skeleton, but when his finger touches the screen the computer BEEPS at him and the image changes. He pulls his hand back, as if it shocked him.

VOLUNTEER

What'd you do?

ELLIE

He touched it. Dr. Grant is not machine compatible.

GRANT

They've got it in for me.

The Volunteer LAUGHS and touches a different part of the screen, which brings the original image back. Grant continues, but doesn't get as close.

GRANT

Look at the half-moon shaped bone in the wrist. No wonder these guys learned how to fly.

The group laughs. Grant is surprised.

GRANT (cont'd)

Now, seriously. Show of hands. How many of you have read my book?

Everyone stops laughing and looks away. Ellie raises her hand supportively. So does the Volunteer. Grant sighs.

GRANT (cont'd)

Maybe dinosaurs have more in common with present-day birds than reptiles. Look at the pubic bone -- it's turned backwards, just like birds. The vertebrae -- full of hollows and air sacs, just like birds. Even the word raptor means "bird of prey."

The Kid steps forward and looks at the computer skeleton critically.

(X)

KID

That doesn't look very scary. More like a six-foot turkey.

(X)

Everyone sort of draws in their breath and steps aside, revealing the Kid, standing alone. Grant turns to the Kid, lowers his sunglasses, and stares at him like he just came from another planet.

(X)

(X)

Grant strolls over to the Kid, puts his arm around his shoulders in a friendly way.

(X)

(X)

GRANT

Try to imagine yourself in the Jurassic period.

(X)

(X)

(X)

Ellie rolls her eyes.

(X)

ELLIE

(under her breath)

Here we go.

(X)

(X)

(X)

GRANT (cont'd)

You'd get your first look at the six-foot turkey as you move into a clearing. But the raptor, he knew you were there a long time ago. He moves like a bird, lightly, bobbing his head. And you keep still, because you think maybe his visual acuity's based on movement, like a T-rex, and he'll lose you if you don't move. But no. Not Velociraptor. You stare at him, and he just stares back. That's when the attack comes -- not from the front, no, from from the side, from the other two raptors you didn't even know were there.

(X)

(X)

(X)

(X)

(X)

(X)

Grant walks around the Kid.

(X)

GRANT (cont'd)

Velociraptor's a pack hunter, you see, he uses coordinated attack patterns, and he's out in force today. And he slashes at you with this --

(X)

(X)

He takes the claw from his pocket and holds it at the front of the raptor's three-toed foot.

GRANT (cont'd)

-- a six-inch retractable claw, like a razor, on the middle toe. They don't bother to bite the jugular, like a lion, they just slash here, here --

He points to the Kid's chest and thigh.

(X)

GRANT (cont'd)

-- or maybe across the belly, spilling your intestines. Point is, you're alive when they start to eat you. Whole thing took about four seconds.

The Kid is on the verge of tears.

(X)

So, you know, try to show a little respect.

And with that he walks off back across the camp, returning to his skeleton. Ellie hurries to catch up with him.

(X)

ELLIE

You know, if you really wanted to scare the kid you could've just pulled a gun on him.

GRANT

Yeah, I know, you know...kids. You want to have one of those?

(X)

(X)

(X)

ELLIE

Well, not one of those, well yeah, possibly one at some point could be a good thing. What's so wrong with kids?

(X)

(X)

(X)

(X)

(X)

GRANT

Oh, Ellie, look. They're noisy, they're messy, they're sticky, they're expensive.

(X)

(X)

(X)

(X)

ELLIE

Cheap, cheap, cheap.

(X)

(X)

GRANT

They smell.

(X)

(X)

ELLIE

Oh my god, they do not! They don't smell.

(X)

(X)

(X)

GRANT

They do smell. Some of them smell baby-smell.

(X)

(X)

(X)

ELLIE

Alright, the one on the airplane had an accident, but usually babies don't smell.

(X)

(X)

(X)

(X)

GRANT

They know very little about the Jurassic period, they know less about the Cretaceous.

(X)

(X)

(X)

(X)

ELLIE (X)
The what? (X)

GRANT (X)
The Cretaceous. (X)

ELLIE (X)
Anything else, you old fossil? (X)

GRANT (X)
Yeah, plenty. Some of them can't (X) walk! (X)

ELLIE (X)
It frustrates me so much that I love (X) you, that I need to strangle you (X) right now! (X)

Ellie playfully takes Grant's hat off and gives him a tight (X) hug. They kiss. (X)

A strange wind seems to be whipping up. Grant and Ellie look (X) around, confused. The wind is getting stronger, blowing dirt and sand everywhere, filling in everything they've dug out, blowing the protective canvasses off. Now there's a more familiar ROAR, and they look up and see it --

-- a huge helicopter, descending on the camp.

ELLIE
(to the Volunteers)
Get some canvasses and cover anything that's exposed!

Grant's already on it, trying desperately to protect the skeleton he's excavating. He looks up at the helicopter and SHOUTS, shaking his fist.

GRANT

9 EXT BASE CAMP DAY

9

Down at the base camp, the helicopter has landed. The PILOT is already out, waiting as GRANT comes down from the mountaintop like Moses, steaming. Grant gestures wildly at him to turn the chopper off.

GRANT

Who's responsible?! Where are they!

The Pilot points timidly to a mobile home across the camp. Grant runs to the trailer and goes inside.

(X)

10 INT TRAILER DAY

10

The trailer serves as the dig's office. There are several long wooden tables set up, every inch covered with bone specimens that are neatly laid out, tagged, and labeled.

10 CONTINUED:

Farther along are ceramic dishes and crocks, soaking other bones in acid and vinegar.

There's old, dusty furniture at one end of the trailer, and a refrigerator. A Man roots around in the refrigerator, his back to us, GRUMBLING about the contents, which are mostly beer. His hands fall across a bottle of expensive champagne in the back.

MAN

Ah hah!

He pulls it out, POPS the cork and takes a deep swig, right out of the bottle.

The door to the trailer SLAPS open and GRANT storms in. He stares incredulously at the Man, whose back is still turned, drinking his champagne without an invitation.

GRANT

What the hell do you think -- hey!
We were saving that!

The Man turns around. JOHN HAMMOND, seventyish, is spritely as hell, with bright, shining eyes that say "Follow me!"

He finishes his swig of champagne and wipes his ~~mouth~~ on his sleeve.

HAMMOND

For today, I guarantee it.

GRANT

Who in God's name do you think you --

HAMMOND

John Hammond. Great to finally meet you in person, Dr. Grant.

Grant is struck silent. He shakes his hands, staring dumbly.

GRANT

Mr. -- Hammond?

Hammond looks around the trailer approvingly, at the enormous amount of work the bones represent.

HAMMOND

I can see my fifty thousand a year has been well spent.

The door SLAPS open again and ELLIE comes in, just as pissed off as Grant was.

ELLIE

Okay, who's the jerk?

10

GRANT

Uh, this is our paleobotanist, Dr.
Ellie Sattler. Ellie -- John
Hammond.

(in case she didn't catch it)

John Hammond.

ELLIE

(thinks)

Did I say jerk?

HAMMOND

Sorry for the dramatic entrance, but I'm in a hurry. Drink?

He offers the bottle of champagne. She takes it, unsure what else to do.

HAMMOND (cont'd)

Don't let it get warm!

(expansively)

Come on in, both of you. Sit down.

As Hammond moves, they notice he walks with a limp, and uses a cane -- for balance or style, it's hard to say which.

They follow him into their own trailer and sit down in the dusty furniture at one end. They look at each other, really taken aback by this guy's bravado.

HAMMOND (cont'd)

I'll get right to the point. I like you. Both of you. I can tell instantly with people; it's a gift.

(new subject)

I own an island. Off the coast of Costa Rica. I leased it from the government and spent the last five years setting up a kind of biological preserve down there. Spared no expense. Really spectacular. It's going to make the one I had in Kenya look like a petting zoo. Our attractions will send kids right out of their minds.

(X)

GRANT

And what are those?

ELLIE

Small versions of adults, honey.

10

He gives her a dirty look.

HAMMOND

Not just kids, mind you -- everybody. We'll be opening next year. That is, if the lawyers don't kill me first. I hate lawyers. You?

GRANT

I, uh -- don't really know any.

HAMMOND

Well, I'm afraid I do. There's one, a real pebble in my shoe, represents my investors. He says they insist on outside opinions.

GRANT

What kind of opinions?

HAMMOND

Your kind. Let's face it, in your field, I am speaking to one of the top minds. If I could just get you two to sign off on the park -- you know, give it your endorsement, maybe sign a brief testimonial -- I could get back on schedule.

GRANT

Why would they care what we think? What kind of park is it?

HAMMOND

(smiles)

It's -- right up your alley. Why don't you come on down? Both of you. Just for the weekend. Love to hear a paleobotanist's opinion as well. I've got a jet standing by at Chateau.

GRANT

That wouldn't be possible. We've just discovered a new skeleton, and --

HAMMOND

I could compensate you by fully funding your dig.

GRANT

-- this would be an awfully unusual time --

12A EXT CAFE DAY

12A

DENNIS NEDRY is in his late thirties, a big guy with a constant smile that could either be laughing with you or at you, you can never tell. He sits at a table in front of a Central American cafe, eating breakfast.

(X)

Another legend:

SAN JOSE, COSTA RICA.

Nedry looks up and sees a man get out of a taxi. LOUIS DODGSON, fiftyish, wearing a large straw hat and looking almost too much like an American tourist. Dodgson clutches an attache case close to him and scans the cafe furtively.

Nedry laughs, shakes his head, and waves to him.

NEDRY

Dodgson!

Dodgson hurries over to the table.

DODGSON

(as he sits)

You shouldn't use my name.

NEDRY

Dodgson, Dodgson, Dodgson.

(loud)

Hey, we got Dodgson over here! See, nobody cares. Nice hat. What are you supposed to be, a secret agent or something?

Dodgson ignores that, sets his attache case down next to the table, and slides it towards Nedry.

DODGSON

Seven fifty.

Nedry smiles and pulls the attache closer to him.

DODGSON (cont'd)

On delivery, fifty thousand more for each viable embryo. That's a million five, total. If you get all fifteen species off the island.

NEDRY

I'll get 'em all.

DODGSON

Remember -- viable embryos. They're no use to us if they don't survive.

NEDRY

How am I supposed to transport them?

Dodgson pulls an ordinary can of shaving cream from a shoulder bag he carries and sets it on the table.

DODGSON

The bottom slides open; it's cooled and compartmentalized inside. They can even check it if they want. Press the top.

Nedry presses the top of the can and real shaving cream comes out. He grins, impressed. While Dodgson talks, Nedry looks around for somewhere to wipe the shaving cream and ends up dumping it on top of someone's slice of cherry pie on a dessert tray next to him.

(X

DODGSON (cont'd)

There's enough coolant gas for thirty-six hours. The embryos have to be back here in San Jose by then.

NEDRY

That's up to your guy on the boat. Seven o'clock tomorrow night, at the east dock. Make sure he's got it right.

DODGSON

How will you beat the security?

NEDRY

I got an eighteen minute window. Eighteen minutes, and your company catches up on ten years of research.

12A

Nedry looks down at it pointedly, then up at Dodgson.

NEDRY (cont'd)

Don't get cheap on me, Dodgson.

14 INT HELICOPTER DAY

14

GRANT, ELLIE, GENNARO and MALCOLM are huddled in the back of the chopper; HAMMOND is in the front with the PILOT.

(X)

There are two other passengers as well. DONALD GENNARO, the lawyer from the amber mine, now dressed in safari clothes, everything straight from Banana Republic. The other is DR. IAN MALCOLM, fortyish, dressed all in black, with snakeskin boots and sunglasses. Malcolm, who finds it hard to take his eyes off Ellie, leans over and SHOUTS over the engine whine.

MALCOLM

Malcolm laughs, finding this very amusing, which confuses Grant. Hammond turns around, annoyed.

(X)

(X)

HAMMOND

You'll have to get used to Dr. Malcolm! He has a deplorable excess of personality, especially for a mathematician!

(X)

MALCOLM

(X)

Chaotician, actually!

(X)

Hammond SNORTS, not even bothering to cover his contempt for Malcolm.

(X)

(X)

MALCOLM (cont'd)

John doesn't subscribe to Chaos, particularly what it has to say about his little science project!

HAMMOND

Codswollop! Ian, you've never come close to explaining these concerns of yours about the island!

MALCOLM

I certainly have! Very clearly!
Because of the behavior of the system in phase space!

Hammond just waves him off.

HAMMOND

Bunch of fashionable number crunching, that's all it is!

MALCOLM

Dr. Grant, Dr. Sattler -- you've heard of Chaos Theory?

(they shake their heads)
Non-linear equations? Strange attractors?

(again, they shrug)
Dr. Sattler, I refuse to believe that you are not familiar with the concept of attraction!

Grant just rolls his eyes as Malcolm gives her an oily grin, but Ellie smiles, enjoying Grant's jealousy. Hammond turns to Gennaro and gives him a dirty look.

HAMMOND

I bring scientists -- you bring a rock star.

The pilot taps Hammond on the shoulder. He turns, looks out the windshield, and CLAPS his hands excitedly.

HAMMOND

There it is!

Up ahead, the others see it.

Isla Nublar. It's a smallish island, completely ringed by thick clouds that give it a lush, mysterious feel. The PILOT pulls up over a spot in the clouds and starts to descend, fast.

HAMMOND (cont'd)

Bad wind shears! We have to drop pretty fast! Hold on, this can be a little thrilling!

The helicopter drops like a stone. Outside the windows, they can see cliff walls racing by, uncomfortably close. They bounce like hell, hitting wild up and down drafts.

Only Hammond still feels chatty.

HAMMOND (cont'd)

We're planning an airstrip! On pilings, extending out onto the ocean twelve thousand feet! Like La Guardia, only a lot safer! What do you think?

They don't answer, just hold on. As they near the ground, a luminous white cross appears below them, a landing pad shining through the plexiglass bubble in the floor of the chopper.

The cross grows rapidly larger as the chopper plummets, but a sudden updraft catches them and they bounce skyward for a moment, then drop again, even faster if possible, before landing with a hard BUMP.

Silence for a moment as the Pilot kills the rotors.

BANG! The helicopter door is jerked open from outside. They all jump back, startled, as a MAN in work clothes leans in to help them out of the chopper to the waiting jeeps. Hammond gestures grandly:

HAMMOND

Welcome to Jurassic Park!

15 EXT HILLTOP DAY

15

Two large, open-top jeeps ROAR down the hilltop away from the landing cross as the helicopter engines WHINE back to life and the rotors start to spin again.

ELLIE, GRANT and MALCOLM hold on tight in the front jeep, HAMMOND and GENNARO are in the rear jeep. Both cars have DRIVERS.

They pass through an enormous gate in a thirty foot high fence, which is closed behind them by two PARK ATTENDANTS.

There are large electrical insulators on the fence, warning lights that strobe importantly, and very clear signs -- "ELECTRIFIED FENCE! 10,000 VOLTS!"

IN THE REAR JEEP,

Gennaro regards the fences critically.

GENNARO

The full fifty miles of perimeter fence are in place?

HAMMOND

And the concrete moats, and the motion sensor tracking systems. Try to enjoy yourself, Donald.

GENNARO

Let's get something straight, John. This is no weekend excursion, this is a serious investigation of the stability of the island because your investors, ~~whom~~ I represent, are deeply concerned. Forty-eight hours from now, if they --

(gestures to Grant, Ellie, and Malcolm)

-- aren't convinced, I'm not convinced. And I can shut you down.

HAMMOND

Forty-eight hours from now, Donald, I'll be accepting your apology. Now get out of the way. I can't see them!

He shoves Gennaro aside, to get a clear view of Grant, Ellie, and Malcolm.

HAMMOND (cont'd)

I wouldn't miss this for the world.

The jeeps wind their way along a mountain road.

IN THE LEAD JEEP,

Ellie stares off to the right, fascinated by the thick tropical plant life around them. She tilts her head, as if something's wrong with this picture.

She reaches out and grabs hold of a leafy branch as they drive by, TEARING it from the tree. She stares at it, amazed, running her hand lightly over it.

ELLIE

Alan --

But Grant's not paying attention, as he's staring off too, out the other side of the jeep. As the jeep bounces along down the narrow path, tree trunks whiz by on the other side of a wide moat.

Grant notices several of the tree trunks are leafless -- just as thick as the other trees, but gray and bare.

IN THE REAR JEEP,

Hammond, watching Grant, signals to his Driver, who slows and stops. The front jeep does as well.

IN THE FRONT JEEP,

ELLIE

(still staring at the leaf)

This shouldn't be here.

Grant twists in his seat as the jeeps stop and looks at one of the gray tree trunks.

He raises his head, looking up the length of the trunk. He looks higher.

And higher.

And higher.

That's no tree trunk. That's a leg. Grant's jaw drops, his head falls all the way back, and he looks up even higher, above the tree line.

Several of the top branches are suddenly RIPPED away, leaving a space in the tree that clearly reveals --

-- a dinosaur. Chewing the branches. Technically, it's a brachiosaur, of the sauropod family, but we've always called it brontosaurus. It CRUNCHES the branches in its mouth, which is some thirty-five feet up off the ground, at the end of its long, arching neck. It stares down at the people in the car with a pleasant, stupid gaze.

15 CONTINUED:

ELLIE (cont'd)
(still looking at the leaf)
This species of veriforman has been extinct for --

Grant, never tearing his eyes from the brachiosaur, reaches over and grabs Ellie's head, turning it to face the animal. She sees it, and drops the leaf.

ELLIE (cont'd)
Oh -- my -- God.

Hammond gets out of his jeep and comes back to join them. He looks like a proud parent showing off the kid.

HAMMOND
You want to go pet it?

Ian Malcolm looks at Hammond, amazed, and with an expression that is a mixture of admiration and reproachment.

(X)

MALCOLM
You did it. You crazy son of a bitch, you did it.

Grant, riveted, has slowly been standing up in his seat, as if to get closer, and now he is up on top of the bench, practically on his tiptoes, just transfixed by the thing.

He lets out one long, sharp HAH! -- like a combination laugh and shout of joy.

The dinosaur, apparently feeling no danger from these little creatures, stretches its enormous neck out, across the moat, right in front of the jeep, across the road, and takes a bite out of the tree on the other side.

GENNARO
(quivering)
Are these -- are these -- ?!

HAMMOND
(in Gennaro's right ear) Herbivores! Relax, they only eat plants!

Gennaro seems to calm.

MALCOLM
(in Gennaro's left ear)
It could still step on you.

Gennaro doesn't appreciate that. The brachiosaur withdraws, dribbling huge hunks of tree branch on the hood of the jeep.

Ellie leaps out and runs across the road, following the head as it pulls back.

Grant points at the thing and manages to put together his first words since its appearance.

GRANT THAT'S A DINOSAUR!

Ellie is at the edge of the moat, looking up at the sauropods in wonder.

They're pretty light on their feet, a far cry from the sluggish, lumbering brutes we would have expected.

ELLIE
(to Hammond)
How many people know about this?!

137

HAMMOND JP
A few dozen consultants around the world. Most know their part of the story, but not the whole picture.

Another sauropod, reaching for a branch high above their heads, stands effortlessly on its hind legs.

GRANT
Ellie, they're -- they're -- the --

ELLIE
-- the movement, you're right, the -- the --

GRANT
-- agility! It's -- it's --

He's moved so far forward toward the moat that he's actually leaning over it, not even aware of it. Ellie, just as lost in what she's seeing, almost unconsciously reaches out and grabs him by the belt, preventing him from falling in and not missing a word while she's doing it.

ELLIE
This is like a knockout punch for warmbloodedness, we can just --

15

GRANT

-- tear up the rule book, it doesn't apply, they're totally wrong, those guys like like like like --

ELLIE

-- the guy with the hair thing at Yale you know you know --

GRANT

-- yeah yeah Aaron, uh, Aaron --

ELLIE

-- Mitchell, that jerk! I'd love to get him down here and watch him eat every one of those smug --

GRANT

(to Hammond)

That thing's got a what, twenty-five, twenty-seven foot neck?

HAMMOND

The brachiosaur? Thirty.

Grant and Ellie look at each other in amazement, then back at Hammond, now talking right over each other.

GRANT

-- and you're going to sit there and try to tell me it can push blood up a thirty-foot neck without a four-chambered heart and get around like that?! Like that!? What are you, kidding?
How fast is it?

ELLIE

That's it, then case closed, this thing doesn't live in a swamp to support its body weight for God's sake, just look at it it's running around like a rhino, for crying out loud -- yeah, how fast is it?

Hammond is a little dazed, not sure who he's talking to.

HAMMOND

Uh -- we clocked the T-rex at thirty-two miles an hour.

GRANT

I knew it!

ELLIE

You've got a T-rex!?
(to Grant)
He's got a T-rex!

GRANT

Let's go look at it!

HAMMOND

(laughing)
Relax, there'll be plenty of time this afternoon.

They turn and look at the view again. It's a beautiful vista, reminiscent of an African plain. A whole herd of dinosaurs crosses the plain, maybe a hundred that we can see in one quick glance alone.

GRANT

Did you -- it's absolutely -- look at the way -- they're herding! They do move in herds!

ELLIE

We were right!

HAMMOND

I needed you to be right. That's why I backed you both. We designed this place with your work on habitat restriction in mind! Feel free to mention that in your endorsement!

GRANT

How'd you do it?!

15

HAMMOND

Come on, I'll show you. We should get on to the visitor's center anyway.

GRANT & ELLIE

No!

Ellie grabs on to the railing, and she's like a little kid.

ELLIE

I want to see more dinosaurs!

HAMMOND

You've come to the right place.

Finally, we notice Gennaro, who has sort of faded into the background while the others reacted. He's just staring, a look of absolute rapture on his face. He speaks in a voice that is hushed and reverent.

GENNARO

We are going to make a fortune with this place. A fortune.

Ian Malcolm stands off a little from the others, staring out at the dinosaurs. He shakes his head.

MALCOLM

Crazy son of a bitch.

17 EXT MAIN COMPOUND DAY

17

The main compound of Jurassic Park is a large area with three main structures connected by walkways and surrounded by two impressive fences, the outer fence almost twenty feet high.

Outside the fences, the jungle has been encouraged to grow naturally.

The largest building is the visitor's center, several stories tall, its walls still skeletal, unfinished. There's a huge glass rotunda in the center.

The second building looks like a private residence, a compound unto itself, with smoked windows and its own perimeter fence.

The third structure isn't really a building at all, but the impressive cage we saw earlier, overgrown inside with thick jungle foliage. The jeeps pull up in front of the visitor's center.

18 INT VISITOR'S CENTER DAY

18

The lobby of the still-unfinished visitor's center is a high-ceilinged place, and has to be to house its central feature, a large skeleton of a tyrannosaur that is attacking a bellowing sauropod. WORKMEN in the basket of a Condor crane are still assembling skeletons. A staircase climbs the far wall, to another wing.

HAMMOND leads GRANT, ELLIE, GENNARO and MALCOLM through the lobby, talking as he goes.

HAMMOND

(continuing)

-- the most advanced amusement park in the world, combining all the latest technologies. I'm not talking about just rides. Everybody had rides. We made living biological attractions so astonishing they'll capture the imagination of the entire world!

Grant stares up at the dinosaur skeletons and just shakes his head. Ellie catches his reaction.

ELLIE

What are you thinking?

GRANT

That we're out of a job.

Ian Malcolm pops in between them.

MALCOLM

Don't you mean "extinct?"

Ellie and Malcolm move on ahead, Malcolm surreptitiously checking out her butt as Grant lags behind. .

CUT TO:

19 INT SHOW ROOM DAY

19

GENNARO, GRANT, ELLIE, and MALCOLM are seated in the front row of a fifty seat auditorium. HAMMOND is on stage in front of them.

HAMMOND

The tour guests will all start here, in the pre-show room.

Behind him, a curtain rises and a huge image of himself beams down at him from a giant television screen.

HAMMOND (screen)

Hello, John!

19 CONTINUED:

19

HAMMOND (stage)
Oh, damn, I've got lines.

He fumbles in his pocket for a three by five note card and scans it, looking for his place. The screen Hammond continues without him.

HAMMOND (screen)
Fine, I guess! But how did I get here?!

HAMMOND (stage)
Uh -- (finding his place)
"Here, let me show you. First, I'll need a drop of blood. Your blood!"

The screen-Hammond extends his finger and the stage-Hammond reaches out and mimes poking it with a needle.

HAMMOND (screen)
Ouch! That hurts, John!

HAMMOND (stage)
"Relax, John. It's all part of the miracle of cloning!"

While the two Hammonds rattle on, the screen image splits into two Hammonds, then four, then eight, and so on, like a shampoo commercial. Grant, Ellie, and Malcolm huddle together excitedly in the audience.

GRANT
Cloning from what?! Loy extraction has never recreated an intact DNA strand!

MALCOLM
Not without massive sequence gaps!

ELLIE
Paleo-DNA? From what source? Where do you get 100 million year old dinosaur blood?!

GENNARO Shhhhhh!

20 IN THE FILM,

20

the screen-Hammond is joined by another figure, this one animated. MR. DNA is a cartoon character, a happy-go-lucky double-helix strand of recombinant DNA. Mr. DNA jumps down onto the screen-Hammond's head and slides down his nose.

20 CONTINUED:

20

HAMMOND

Hey! Mr. DNA! Where'd you come from?

MR. DNA

From your blood! Just one drop of your blood contains billions of strands of DNA, the building blocks of life!

(X)

21 IN THE AUDIENCE,

21

the silhouette of Malcolm leans over to the silhouette of Gennaro while Mr. DNA continues his speech.

MALCOLM

Mr. DNA is from Texas?

(X)

GENNARO

Kids love cowboys.

(X)

22 IN THE FILM,

22

Mr. DNA has taken over the show, and is speaking to the audience from the screen.

MR. DNA

A DNA strand like me is a blueprint for building a living thing! And sometimes animals that went extinct millions of years ago, like dinosaurs, left their blueprints behind for us to find! We just had to know where to look!

137

The screen image changes from animated to a nature-photography look. It's an extreme close-up of a mosquito, its fangs sunk deep into some animal's flesh, its body pulsing and engorging with the blood it's drinking.

MR. DNA (cont'd)

A hundred million years ago, there were mosquitoes, just like today. And, just like today, they fed on the blood of animals. Even dinosaurs!

The camera races back to show the mosquito is perched on top of a giant animated brachiosaur.

The image changes, to another close-up, this one of a tree branch, its bark glistening with golden sap. Mr. DNA leaps on to the sap.

22

MR. DNA (cont'd)
 Sometimes, after biting a dinosaur, the mosquito would land on the branch of a tree, and get stuck in the sap!

The engorged mosquito lands in the tree sap, and gets stuck.
 So is Mr. DNA. He tugs at his legs, but they stay stuck.

MR. DNA (cont'd)
 WHOA!

Now more tree sap flows over them, covering Mr. DNA and the mosquito completely. Mr. DNA SHOUTS from inside the tree sap.

MR. DNA (cont'd)
 After a long time, the tree sap would get hard and become fossilized, just like a dinosaur bone, preserving the mosquito inside!

23 A SCIENCE LABORATORY

buzzes with activity. Everywhere, there are piles of amber, tagged and labeled with SCIENTISTS in white coats examining it under microscopes.

One SCIENTIST moves a complicated drill apparatus next to the chunk of amber with the fossilized mosquito inside and BORES into the side of it. MR. DNA escapes through the drill hole as the Scientist moves the amber onto the microscope and peers through the eyepiece.

MR. DNA (O.S.)
 This fossilized tree sap -- which we call amber -- waited for millions of years, with the mosquito inside -- until Jurassic Park's scientists came along!

24 THROUGH THE MICROSCOPE,

24 we see the greatly enlarged image of a mosquito through the lens.

MR. DNA (O.S.)
 Using sophisticated techniques, they extract the preserved blood from the mosquito, and --

A long needle is inserted through the amber, into the thorax of the mosquito, and makes an extraction.

MR. DNA (cont'd)
 -- Bingo! Dino DNA!

25 ON THE SCREEN,

25

Mr. DNA jumps down in front of DNA data as it races by at headache speed. He holds his head, dizzied by it.

MR. DNA (cont'd)
A full DNA strand contains three billion genetic codes! If we looked at screens like these once a second for eight hours a day, it'd take two years to look at the entire DNA strand! It's that long! And since it's so old, it's full of holes! That's where our geneticists take over!

25A INT GENETICS LAB DAY

25A

SCIENTISTS toil in a lab with two huge white towers at either side.

MR. DNA (o.s.)
Thinking Machine supercomputers and gene sequencers break down the strand in minutes --

One SCIENTIST, in the back, has his arms encased in two long rubber tubes. He's strapped into a bizarre apparatus, staring into a complex headpiece and moving his arms gently, like Tai Chi movements.

MR. DNA (cont'd)
-- and Virtual Reality displays show our geneticists the gaps in the DNA sequence! Since most animal DNA is ninety percent identical, we use the complete DNA of a frog --

25B ON THE V.R. DISPLAY

25B

we see an actual DNA strand, except it has a big hole in the center, where vital information is missing. MR. DNA bounds into frame, carrying a bunch of letters in one hand.

He puts it in the gap and turns his back against it, GRUNTING as he shoves it into place.

MR. DNA
(straining)
-- to fill in the -- holes and -- complete -- the -- (finally getting it)
-- code! Whew!

He brushes his hands off, satisfied.

MR. DNA (cont'd)
Now we can make a baby dinosaur!

26 IN THE AUDIENCE

26

Gennaro bursts into spontaneous applause. The scientists look at each other, not so sure.

HAMMOND

Now there's some dramatic music -- da dum da dum da dum dum -- a march or something, it's not written yet, and the tour moves on --

He throws a switch and safety bars appear out of nowhere and drop over their seats, CLICKING into place.

MALCOLM

Hey!

HAMMOND

That's supposed to happen! It's for your own safety!

Grant's bar smashes down on his leg, pinching it. He winces as the row of seats moves out of the auditorium, through automatic doors, and into the hallway.

27 INT HALLWAY DAY

27

The row of seats moves slowly past a row of double-paned glass windows beneath a large sign that reads
"GENETICS/FERTILIZATION/HATCHERY." Inside, TECHNICIANS work at microscopes. In the back is a section entirely lit by blue ultraviolet light.

Mr. DNA's VOICE continues over a speaker in each seat.

MR. DNA (O.S.)

Our fertilization department is where the dinosaur DNA takes the place of the DNA in unfertilized emu or ostrich eggs -- and then it's on to the nursery, where we welcome the dinosaurs back into the world!

Although GENNARO has a wondrous grin plastered on his face, just loving everything now, GRANT, ELLIE, and MALCOLM are frustrated, leaning forward, straining against the safety bars for a better look. But the cars keep going.

GRANT

Wait a minute! How do you interrupt the cellular mitosis?!

ELLIE

Can't we see the unfertilized host eggs?!

But the cars are already moving on to another set of windows, which give a glimpse into what looks like a control room.

27 CONTINUED:

27

MR. DNA (O.S.)
Our control room contains some of the most sophisticated automation ever attempted in --

Grant strains to look back into the labs, but the cars move past again, no intention of slowing down.

GRANT
Can't you stop these things?!

HAMMOND
Sorry! It's kind of a ride!

GRANT
(to Malcolm)
Let's get outta here!

The two of them team up on the safety bars. Grant shoves his all the way back with one foot and Malcolm holds it for him while he escapes, then slithers out from underneath his own bar, runs across the other empty seats, and heads for the door of the hatchery.

GENNARO
Hey! You can't do that!

Too late. Ellie slips out from under her safety bar too and stomps right across Gennaro's seat.

GENNARO (cont'd)
Come on, you guys!

They reach the door to the hatchery. Grant tries to shove it open, but just THUDS into it. He rattles the handle, but the door won't budge, as it's on a security key-card system.
HAMMOND steps up with his card.

HAMMOND
It's all right, Donald. They should be curious!

He slides his card though a slot in a flashing red panel and the door BUZZES open an inch. Grant looks at the buzzing thing suspiciously and gently pushes it open.

28 INT HATCHERY/NURSERY DAY

28

The hatchery is a vast, open room, bathed in infrared light.
Long tables run the length of the place, all covered with eggs, their pale outlines obscured by the hissing low mist that's all through the room.

GRANT goes to a small incubator of the kind used in hospital nurseries and peers inside.

28 CONTINUED:

28

An egg is CRACKING as a baby dinosaur tries to get out, just its head sticking out of the shell. A robotic arm steadies the shell.

GRANT

My God -- look!

HENRY WU, white lab coat, late twenties, Asian-American, leans in over Grant's shoulder.

WU

Ah, wonderful! I'd hoped it would hatch before I had to leave for the boat.

HAMMOND, MALCOLM, an ELLIE join them.

HAMMOND

Henry, why didn't you tell me? You know I insist on being here when they're born.

Hammond reaches down and carefully breaks away egg fragments, helping the baby dinosaur out of its shell. Grant tries to pick up the large, broken half-shell, but the robotic arm snatches it back out of his hand, pinching his thumb.

HAMMOND (cont'd)

They imprint on the first living thing they come in contact with. It helps them trust me. I've been present for the birth of every animal on this island.

MALCOLM

Surely not the ones that have bred in the wild.

WU

Oh, they can't breed in the wild. Population control is one of our security precautions. There is no unauthorized breeding here.

Grant and Ellie exchange a look. She manages not to smile.

MALCOLM

How do you know they can't breed?

28

WU

Because all the animals in Jurassic Park are females. We engineered them that way.

The animal now free, Hammond sets it down carefully next to its shell. Grant picks it up and holds it in the palm of his hand, under the incubator's heat light.

GRANT

Blood temperature feels like high eighties.

137

WU

Ninety-one.

GRANT

Homeothermic? It holds that temperature?

(Wu nods) Incredible.

Malcolm is looking at Hammond, skeptical.

MALCOLM

Again, how do you know they're all female? Does someone go into the park and, uh -- lift the dinosaurs' skirts?

WU

We control their chromosomes. It's not that difficult. All vertebrate embryos are inherently female anyway.
It takes an extra hormone at the right developmental stage to create a male, and we simply deny them that.

Malcolm GRUNTS, unconvinced.

HAMMOND

What are you grunting at?

MALCOLM

The kind of control you're attempting is flatly impossible. If there's one thing the history of evolution has taught us, it's that life will not be contained. Life breaks free. It expands to new territories. It crashes through barriers. Painfully, perhaps even dangerously, but there it is.

Ellie listens to him, impressed. Grant, ignoring the others, spreads the baby dinosaur out on the back of his hand and delicately runs his finger over its tail, counting the vertebrae. A look of puzzled recognition crosses his face.

WU

You're implying that a group composed entirely of female animals will breed?

MALCOLM

I'm simply saying that life -- finds a way.

28

ELLIE
That's quite philosophical. I like that.

Malcolm smiles at her, too warmly. Grant doesn't notice, as he's still obsessed with the infant dinosaur, measuring and weighing it on a nearby lab bench. He stops, a strange look on his face. He knows what this animal is -- but it can't be.

GRANT
(dreading the answer)
What species is this?

WU
Uh -- it's Velociraptor.

Grant and Ellie turn slowly and look at each other, then look at Hammond, astonished.

GRANT
You bred raptors?

CUT TO:

29 EXT RAPTOR PEN DAY

29

GRANT charges across the compound, a fire in his eyes, ahead of ELLIE, MALCOLM, and GENNARO. HAMMOND struggles to keep up.

HAMMOND
Uh -- we planned to show you the raptors later, after lunch. Dr. Grant?

137

But Grant has stopped abruptly next to the velociraptor pen, which we recognize as the heavily fortified cage we saw earlier, with the San Quentin tower at one end.

Grant stands right up against the fence, eyes wide, dying for a glimpse.

HAMMOND catches up, slightly out of breath.

HAMMOND (cont'd)
As I say, we've set up lunch for you before you head out into the park. Steve, our cook --

GRANT
What are they doing?

As they watch, a giant crane lowers something large down into the middle of the jungle foliage inside the pen. Something very large.

29 CONTINUED:

29

It's a steer. The poor thing looks disconcerted as hell, helpless in its harness, flailing its legs in the air.

HAMMOND

Feeding them, I think.

(moving along)

Steve, our cook, put together a fine menu for you. A Chilean sea bass, I think. Shall we?

But the others stay rooted to the spot, staring as the steer disappears into the shroud of foliage. The line from the crane hangs slack for a moment.

The jungle seems to grow very quiet. They all stare at the motionless crane line. It jerks suddenly, like a fishing pole finally getting a nibble. There's a pause --

-- and then a frenzy. The line jerks every which way, the jungle plants sway and SNAP from some frantic activity within, there is a cacophony of GROWLING, of SNAPPING, of wet CRUNCHES that mean the steer is literally being torn to pieces and it almost makes it worse that we can't see anything of what's going on --

-- and then it's quiet again. The line jerks a few more times, then stops. Slowly the SOUNDS of the jungle start up again.

ELLIE

God.

HAMMOND

Fascinating animals, aren't they? Fascinating. Given time, they're going to outdraw the T-rex. I guarantee it.

GRANT

Can we get closer?! Can we look at them?

Ellie puts a hand on his arm, like calming an overexcited child.

ELLIE

Alan, they're not bones anymore.

HAMMOND

We're -- still perfecting a viewing system. The raptors seem to be a bit resistant to integration into a park setting.

A VOICE comes from behind them.

29 CONTINUED: 2

29

VOICE (O.S.)

They should all be destroyed.

They turn and look at the man who spoke. ROBERT MULDOON, the grim-faced man who was present at the accident in the beginning, is fortyish, British.

29

He stands a little behind them, hands in his pockets, hat shoved back on his head. When Muldoon talks, you listen.

HAMMOND

Robert Muldoon was my game warden in Kenya. Bit of an alarmist, but he's dealt with the raptors more than anyone.

GRANT

What kind of metabolism do they have? What's their growth rate?

MULDOON

They're lethal at eight months. And I do mean lethal. I've hunted everything that can hunt you, but the way these things move --

GRANT

Fast for a biped?

MULDOON

Cheetah speed. Fifty, sixty miles an hour if they ever got out in the open. And they're astonishing jumpers.

HAMMOND

Yes, yes, yes, which is why we've taken extreme precautions. The viewing area below us will have eight-inch tempered glass set in reinforced steel frames to --

GRANT

Do they show intelligence? With a brain cavity like theirs we assumed --

MULDOON

They show extreme intelligence, even problem solving. Especially the big one. We bred eight originally, but when she came in, she took over the pride and killed all but two of the others. That one -- when she looks at you, you can see she's thinking.

She's why we have to feed 'em this way. She had them all attacking the fences when the feeders came.

ELLIE

But the fences are electrified.

29

MULDOON

They never attacked the same place twice. They were testing it for weaknesses. Systematically. They remembered.

Behind them, the crane WHIRRS back to life, raising its cable back up out of the raptor pen. The guests turn and stare as the end portion of the cable becomes visible. The steer has been dragged completely away, leaving only the tattered, bloody harness.

Hammond claps his hands together excitedly.

HAMMOND

Who's hungry?

CUT TO:

30 INT VISITOR CENTER PRESENTATION ROOM DAY 30 (X)

HAMMOND, GRANT, ELLIE, MALCOLM and GENNARO eat lunch at a long table in the visitor's center restaurant. There is a large buffet table and two WAITERS to serve them.

The room is darkened and Hammond is showing slides on various screens all around them. Hammond's own recorded voice describes current and future features of the park while the slides flash artists' renderings all around them. (For a complete text of the recorded presentation, see appendix A.)

The real Hammond turns and speaks over the narration.

HAMMOND

None of these attractions are ready yet. The park will open with the basic tour you're about to take, and other rides will come on line six, twelve months after that. Absolutely spectacular designs. Spared no expense.

(to Ellie)

Try the ice cream, it's wonderful. I personally tested all twenty-four flavors.

More slides CLICK past, a series of graphs dealing with profits, attendance and other fiscal projections. Donald Gennaro, who has become increasingly friendly with Hammond, even giddy, grins from ear to ear and slaps him on the back. Hammond winces.

Everyone in the world's got a right

Grant looks down, at the plate he's eating from. It's in the shape of the island itself. He looks at his drinking cup. It's got a T-rex on it, and a splashy Jurassic Park logo.

There are a stack of folded amusement park-style maps on the table in front of Grant. He picks one up. Boldly, across the top it says "Fly United to Jurassic Park!"

HAMMOND

(on tape)

-- from combined revenue streams for all three parks should reach eight to nine billion dollars a year --

HAMMOND

(to Gennaro)

That's conservative, of course. There's no reason to speculate wildly.

GENNARO

I've never been a rich man. I hear it's nice. Is it nice?

Ian Malcolm, who has been watching the screens with outright contempt, SNORTS, as if he's finally had enough.

MALCOLM

The lack of humility before nature that has been displayed here staggers me.

They all turn and look at him.

GENNARO

Thank you, Dr. Malcolm, but I think things are a little different than you and I had feared.

MALCOLM

Yes, they are. They're far worse.

GENNARO

Now, wait a second, we haven't even seen the park yet. Let's just hold our concerns until --

HAMMOND

No, Donald, let him talk. I want to hear all viewpoints. I truly do.

MALCOLM

Don't you see the danger inherent in what you've done?

(MORE)

MALCOLM (cont'd)

Genetic power is the most awesome force this planet has ever seen, but you wield it like a child that's found his father's gun.

GENNARO

It is hardly appropriate to start hurling generalizations before --

MALCOLM

The problem with the scientific power you've used is it required no discipline to attain it. You simply read what others had done and took the next step. You didn't earn the knowledge yourselves, so you took no responsibility for it. You simply stood on the shoulders of geniuses to accomplish something as fast as you could, and before you even knew what you had, you patented it, packaged it, slapped it on a plastic lunchbox, and sold it.

HAMMOND

You don't give us our due credit. Our scientists have done things no one could ever do before.

MALCOLM

Your scientists were so preoccupied with whether or not they could that they didn't stop to think if they should. Science can create pesticides, but it can't tell us not to use them. Science can make a nuclear reactor, but it can't tell us not to build it!

HAMMOND

But this is nature! Why not give an extinct species a second chance?! Condors are on the verge of extinction -- if I'd created a flock of them on the island, you wouldn't be saying any of this!

MALCOLM

Hold on -- this is no species that was obliterated by deforestation or the building of a dam. Dinosaurs had their shot. Nature selected them for extinction.

30

HAMMOND

I don't understand this Luddite attitude, especially from a scientist. How could we stand in the light of discovery and not act?

MALCOLM

What's so great about discovery? It's a violent, penetrative act that scars what it explores. What you call discovery I call the rape of the natural world!

GENNARO

Please -- let's hear something from the others. Dr. Grant? Dr. Sattler?

ELLIE

The question is -- how much can you know about an extinct system? There are plants, for example, right here in your restaurant, that are poisonous. You picked them because they're pretty, but these are aggressive living things that have no idea what century they're living in and will defend themselves. Violently, if necessary.

Exasperated, Hammond turns to Grant, who looks shell-shocked.

HAMMOND

Dr. Grant, if there's one person who can appreciate all of this --

But Grant speaks quietly, really thrown by all of this.

GRANT

I feel -- elated and -- frightened and -- (starts over)

The world has just changed so radically. We're all running to catch up. I don't want to draw conclusions yet but --

He leans forward, a look of true concern on his face.

30 CONTINUED: 5

30

GRANT (cont'd)

Dinosaurs and man -- two species separated by sixty-five million years of evolution -- have been suddenly thrown back into the mix together. How can we have the faintest idea what to expect?

HAMMOND

I can't believe it. I expected you to come down here and defend me against these guys and the only one I've got on my side is the bloodsucking lawyer!?

GENNARO

Thank you.

From outside, a horn HONKS.

HAMMOND

Ah -- Tim and Alexis are here.

(X)

30 CONTINUED: 6

30

GRANT

Who?

(X)

30A INT VISITOR'S CENTER LOBBY DAY

30A

HAMMOND, GRANT, ELLIE, MALCOLM, and GENNARO walk out of the restaurant and into the lobby of the visitor's center. They pass under the skeletons of the dinosaurs again.

HAMMOND

You four are going to have a little company out in the park. Spend a little time with our target audience. Maybe they'll help you get in the spirit of the place.

GRANT

What do you mean, target audience?

Hammond turns toward the door of the center, drops to his knees, and throws his arms out expansively.

HAMMOND

(bellowing)

KIDS!!

Two kids standing in the doorway to the center break into broad smiles. TIM, the boy, is about nine years old; ALEXIS, his sister, looks around twelve.

TIM & LEX

Grandpa!

They race across the lobby and into Hammond's arms.

GRANT

Uh -- they're coming with us?

CUT TO:

31 EXT VISITOR'S CENTER DAY

31

Two modified Ford Explorers leap up out of an underground garage beneath the visitor's center. They move quietly, with a faint electronic HUM, and straddle a partially buried metal rail in the middle of the road. They pull to a stop where the group is gathered.

Ellie is off to the side with ALEXIS, introducing herself warmly.

31 CONTINUED:

31

HAMMOND is with MALCOLM and GRANT, GENNARO is already in the first car.

HAMMOND

Have a heart, gentlemen. Their parents are getting a divorce and they need the diversion.

10

13

31 CONTINUED:

31

GENNARO

Hey! There's no steering wheel!

HAMMOND

They're electric cars, guided by a track in the roadway! Totally non-polluting, top of the line! Spared no expense. Have fun. I'll be watching you from control.

(X)

He turns and heads back toward the visitor's center.

MALCOLM

(too eagerly)

I'll ride with Dr. Sattler.

He turns and walks over to Ellie. Grant frowns, not liking this one bit. He moves to follow him, but notices TIM staring up at him, wide-eyed.

TIM

I read your book.

GRANT

Oh. That's, uh -- great.

As Tim is now standing next to the lead car, Grant turns and heads for the rear car. Tim follows.

TIM

You really think dinosaurs turned into birds? And that's where all the dinosaurs went?

GRANT

Well, uh, a few species -- may have evolved, uh -- along those lines --

Grant opens the door of the rear car and climbs in. A mechanical voice intones from inside:

VOICE

"Two to four passengers to a car, please. Children under ten must be accompanied by an adult."

Tim is right behind Grant, so Grant keeps moving, across the back seat of the car and out the other door. Malcolm watches this, amused.

As Grant rounds the front of the car --

-- he practically steps over Tim, who has gotten out and cut him off.

31

TIM

'Cause they sure don't look like birds to me. I heard a meteor hit the earth and made like this one hundred mile crater down in Mexico or someplace and that's how come they stopped.

GRANT

Which car were you planning on --

Tim just shrugs. Grant goes to the front car again, opens the rear door, and holds it for Tim, who climbs in the back seat, rattling on and on.

TIM

Then I heard about this thing in Omni? About the meteor making all this heat that made a bunch of diamond dust or something? And that changed the weather and they died because of the weather? And my teacher told me about this other book by a guy named Bakker? And he said --

(X)

SLAM! Grant closes the car door on Tim. He turns and heads for the rear vehicle --

-- and bumps right into Lex.

LEX

(points at Ellie)

She said I should ride with you because it would be good for you.

Grant looks over at Ellie, annoyed.

GRANT

She's a deeply neurotic woman.

CUT TO:

32 INT CONTROL ROOM DAY

32

The Jurassic Park control room looks like mission control for a space launch, with several computer terminals and dozens of video screens that display images of various dinosaurs, taken from all over the park.

There's a large glass map of the island at the front of the room that is lit up like a Christmas tree with various colored lights, each one with a number and identification code next to it.

But the place is unfinished, with unattached cables, construction materials, and ladders scattered about.

The mood among the half-dozen TECHNICIANS present is chaotic as they rush around with last-minute adjustments.

HAMMOND whisks in through the double doors with ROBERT MULDOON (X) right on his tail, carrying a trail of computer paper. (X)

MULDOON
National Weather Service is tracking (X) a tropical storm line about seventy-five miles west of us.

Hammond sighs and looks heavenward.

HAMMOND
Why didn't I build in Orlando?

MULDOON
I'll keep an eye on it. Maybe it'll (X) swing south like the last one.

HAMMOND
Good. Do that.

They reach the main console, where RAY ARNOLD, fortyish, a (X) chronic worrier and chain-smoker, is seated, wearing a (X) telephone headset. A TECHNICIAN is nearby, working with (X)
Arnold, his back turned. (X)

HAMMOND
(a deep breath)
Start the tour program, Ray.

Arnold punches a button on his console.

ARNOLD (cont'd)
(not exactly comforting)
Hold onto your butts.

CUT TO:

33 EXT VISITOR'S CENTER DAY

33

With a loud CHUNK, the Explorers start forward along the electrical pathway. GENNARO, TIM, and LEX are in the front vehicle; GRANT, ELLIE and MALCOLM in the rear.

33A EXT MAIN GATES DAY

33A

They pass through two enormous, primitive gates, torches blazing on either side. The gates swallow the cars, ushering them into the dark, verdant jungle world beyond. Into Jurassic Park.

34 INT JURASSIC PARK DAY

34

IN THE REAR CAR,

the Explorer's speakers BLARE with a fanfare of trumpets, and the interior video screens flash "Welcome to Jurassic Park." A familiar VOICE comes over the speakers:

VOICE (O.S.)
Welcome to Jurassic Park. You are now entering the lost world of the prehistoric past, a world --

IN THE LEAD CAR,

GENNARO is messing with the complex video display, punching buttons randomly.

GENNARO
What's wrong with this thing?
There's no sound!

34 CONTINUED:

34

LEX

It's an interactive CD-ROM! Look, see, you just touch the right part of the screen --

As she touches various graphics on the screen, the VOICE changes subjects accordingly.

LEX (cont'd.)

-- and it talks about whatever you want!

VOICE (O.S.)

-- creatures long gone from the face of the earth, which you are privileged to see for the first time.

TIM

Lex is a computer nerd.

LEX

I'm a hacker.

Tim SNORTS a laugh at her.

Hammond's voice from the control room comes over the speaker: (X)

HAMMOND (O.S.)

(proudly)

By the way, that's James Earl Jones. (X)
We spared no expense!

Gennaro beams. (X)

IN THE REAR CAR,

MALCOLM looks at GRANT and ELLIE and rolls his eyes. Gennaro's voice comes over again.

GENNARO (o.s.)

By the way, that's an interactive CD-ROM.

IN THE PARK,

the fences and retaining walls are covered with greenery and growth, to heighten the illusion of moving through a jungle.

The cars come to a halt on top of a low rise, where a break in the foliage gives them a view down a sloping field that is broken by a river. The tour voice continues.

VOICE (O.S.)

If you look to the right, you will see a herd of the first dinosaurs on our tour, called Dilophosaurus.

IN THE FRONT CAR,

Tim and Lex practically SLAM up against the windows, to get a look.

IN THE REAR CAR,

Grant, Malcolm, and Ellie do the same.

DOWN NEAR THE RIVER BANK,

there are a lot of beautiful plants, but no sign of a herd of anything. The tour voice continues anyway.

VOICE (O.S.)

One of the earliest carnivores, we now know Dilophosaurus is actually poisonous, spitting its venom at its prey, causing blindness and eventually paralysis, allowing the carnivore to eat at its leisure. This makes Dilophosaurus a beautiful, but deadly addition to Jurassic Park.

Corny SCARY MUSIC plays over the speakers.

IN THE FRONT CAR,

TIM

There's nothing there!

IN THE REAR CAR,

Grant and the others sit back, disappointed.

GRANT

Damn.

ON THE ROAD,

the cars move on. As they roll past, we notice the headlights are on, even in the daytime.

CUT TO:

35 INT CONTROL ROOM DAY

35

RAY ARNOLD watches his computer screen and the video monitors at the same time, keeping an eye on the cars as they move through the park. HAMMOND hovers over his shoulder.

ARNOLD

Vehicle headlights are on and don't respond. Those shouldn't be running off the car batteries.

He sighs and reaches for a clipboard hanging next to his chair, to jot this down.

ARNOLD (cont'd)

Item one fifty-one on today's glitch list. We've got all the problems of a major theme park and a major zoo, and the computer's not even on its feet yet.

Hammond shakes his head and turns to the TECHNICIAN to his left, who still has his back to them, watching a Costa Rican game show on one of his monitors and drinking a Jolt cola.

HAMMOND

Dennis, our lives are in your hands and you have butterfingers.

The Technician turns around in his chair and extends his arms in a Christlike pose. As we get a good look at him, we get the sinking feeling that we've seen him somewhere before. And we have. DENNIS NEDRY is the man who accepted a suitcase full of cash in San Jose.

NEDRY

I am totally unappreciated in my time. We can run the whole park from this room, with minimal staff, for up to three days. You think that kind of automation is easy? Or cheap? You know anybody who can network eight Connection Machines and de-bug two million lines of code for what I bid this job? 'Cause I'd sure as hell like to see them try.

HAMMOND

I'm sorry about your financial problems. I really am. But they are your problems.

NEDRY

You're right, John. You're absolutely right. Everything's my problem.

HAMMOND

I will not get drawn into another financial conversation with you, Dennis. I will not. I don't blame people for their mistakes, but I do ask that they pay for them.

ARNOLD

Dennis -- the headlights.

35 CONTINUED: 2

35

NEDRY

I'll de-bug the tour program when they get back. Okay? Okay? It'll eat a lot of compute cycles; parts of the system may go down for a while.

MULDOON, who has been hovering near the video monitors as always, turns toward them, annoyed.

(X)

(X)

35 CONTINUED: 3

35

MULDOON

Quiet, all of you. They're coming to the tyrannosaur paddock.

CUT TO:

36 EXT TYRANNOSAUR PADDOCK DAY

36

The two Explorers drive along a high ridge and stop at the edge of a large, open plain that is separated from the road by a fifteen-foot fence, clearly marked with "DANGER!" signs and ominous-looking electrical posts.

TIM, LEX, and GENNARO are pressed forward against the windows, eyes wide, waiting for you-know-who.

IN THE REAR CAR,

The voice on the radio drones on, but GRANT, ELLIE and MALCOLM aren't even listening any more, dying of anticipation.

VOICE (O.S.)

The mighty tyrannosaurs arose late in dinosaur history. Dinosaurs ruled the earth for a hundred and fifty million years, but it wasn't until the last --

GRANT

Turn that off, will you?

Ellie flips a switch and they wait in silence -- except for Malcolm, who looks at the ceiling, thinking aloud.

MALCOLM

God creates dinosaurs. God destroys dinosaurs. God creates man. Man destroys God. Man creates dinosaurs.

ELLIE

(finishing it for him)

Dinosaurs eat man. Women inherit the Earth.

She and Malcolm laugh, enjoying their joke together. Grant rolls his eyes, not.

ARNOLD (O.S.)

Hold on, we'll try to tempt the rex.

IN THE Paddock,

there is a low HUMMING sound. Out in the middle of the field, a small cage rises up into view, lifted on hydraulics from underground. The cage bars slide down, leaving the cage's occupant standing alone in the middle of the field.

It's a goat, one leg chained to a stake. It looks around, confused, and BLEATS plaintively.

IN THE FRONT CAR,

LEX and TIM look at the goat with widely different reactions.

LEX

What's going to happen to the goat?
He's going to eat the goat?!

TIM

(in heaven)
Excellent.

GENNARO

(to Lex)
What's the matter, kid, you never had lamb chops?

LEX

I happen to be a vegetarian.

IN THE REAR CAR,

(X)

GRANT

(shakes his head)
T-rex doesn't want to be fed, he wants to hunt. You can't just suppress sixty-five million years of gut instinct.

IN THE PADDOCK,

the goat waits. And waits. From the Explorers, six faces watch it expectantly. The goat tugs on its chain. It walks back and forth, nervous. It BLEATS.

IN THE REAR CAR,

Grant watches, his eyes glued, his breathing becoming a little more rapid.

IN THE FRONT CAR,

Tim and Lex can't tear their eyes away.

IN THE PADDOCK,

finally, the goat --

-- lays down.

IN THE REAR CAR,

everyone sits back, disappointed again, as the cars pull forward to continue the tour. Malcolm picks up the microphone.

36 CONTINUED:

dinosaurs on your dinosaur tour,
right?

39 INT CONTROL ROOM DAY

39

HAMMOND just shakes his head as Malcolm's voice comes through.

HAMMOND

I really hate that guy.

40 EXT PARK DAY

40

GRANT is really suffering, trapped in the car, seeing nothing.
He looks out the opposite windows longingly while MALCOLM rattles on to ELLIE.

MALCOLM

You see? The tyrannosaur obeys no set patterns or park schedules. It's the essence of Chaos.

ELLIE

I'm still not clear on Chaos.

MALCOLM

It simply deals with unpredictability in complex systems. The shorthand is the Butterfly Effect. A butterfly can flap its wings in Peking and in Central Park you get rain instead of sunshine.

ELLIE

(even more confused)

Oh.

Looking out the opposite window, Grant sees some movement at the far end of a field. He sits bolt upright, trying to get a better look.

Malcolm, looking for another example, dips his hand into a glass of water in a recessed hole in the dashboard. He takes Ellie's hand in his own.

40 CONTINUED:

40

MALCOLM (cont'd)

Here. Say a drop of water falls on your hand.

He flicks his fingers and a drop falls on the back of Ellie's hand.

MALCOLM (cont'd)

Which way will the drop roll? Over which finger? Or down your thumb?
Or to the other side?

ELLIE

Uh -- thumb!

MALCOLM (cont'd)

Wrong! Back, over your wrist! And if another drop fell, the outcome would be totally different. Because tiny variations -- the orientation of the hairs on your hand, the amount of blood distending in your vessels, imperfections in the skin -- never repeat, and vastly affect the outcome. That's unpredictability, and even if we haven't seen it yet, I'm quite sure it's going on in this park.

40

There's definitely something out in that field, and Grant has to see it. He jerks on the door handle and opens his door a few inches. He looks outside, toward freedom, then looks around, to see if anybody's watching him.

Malcolm, who has yet to let go of Ellie's hand, lowers his voice, becoming more seductive now.

MALCOLM (cont'd)
Life's a lot like that, isn't it? By chance, you meet someone you'll never meet again, and the course of your whole future changes. It's dynamic -- it's exciting --

Grant throws the door open and bolts out of the moving car.

MALCOLM (cont'd)
See?! I'm right again! No one could have predicted Dr. Grant would suddenly jump out of a moving vehicle!

ELLIE

Alan?

She jumps out too and follows him into the field.

MALCOLM
There's another example!

IN THE FRONT CAR,

TIM
Hey! I want to go with them!

IN THE REAR CAR,

MALCOLM
See? Here I am now, by myself, talking to myself -- that's Chaos Theory!

41 INT CONTROL ROOM DAY

41

HAMMOND, MULDOON, and ARNOLD stare at a video monitor incredulously as everyone now pours out of the cars and follows Grant down the hill.

41 CONTINUED:

41

The cars roll on slowly, empty, their doors hanging open.

ARNOLD

Uh -- Mr. Hammond --

HAMMOND

Stop the program! Stop the program!

41 CONTINUED:

41

MULDOON

I told you we needed locking mechanisms on the vehicle doors!

ACROSS THE ROOM,

DENNIS NEDRY sneaks a peek at a video monitor. It shows an image of a steel door, plainly marked -- "EMBRYONIC COLD STORAGE. RESTRICTED!"

He looks to another monitor, which is labeled "EAST DOCK." The monitor shows a supply ship, moored at the dock. Its cargo is being unloaded and a large group of WORKERS is filing aboard.

Nedry holds something in his hands, under the counter, where no one can see it. It's a can of shaving cream.

CUT TO:

42 EXT PARK DAY

42

GRANT, ELLIE, GENNARO, MALCOLM and the KIDS are out in the open field, heading toward a small stand of trees. For the first time, we notice the sky is starting to darken rather early in the day. Tim dogs Grant's footsteps, so excited he can hardly keep his feet on the ground.

TIM

So like I was saying, there's this other book by a guy named Bakker? And he said dinosaurs died of a bunch of diseases? He definitely didn't say they turned into birds.

Gennaro is scared as hell, following the others, but his head darting left and right.

GENNARO

Uh -- anybody else think we shouldn't be out here?

TIM

And his book was a lot fatter than yours.

GENNARO

Anybody at all. Feel free to speak up.

Lex stumbles and Grant takes her hand, to stop her from falling. She looks up at him and smiles.

Grant smiles back and tries to recover his hand, but Lex holds tight. He's massively uncomfortable. Ellie notices.

42 CONTINUED:

42

Suddenly, they all stop in their tracks. A huge smile spreads across the faces of both Tim and Grant.

GRANT & TIM

Cool.

It's a triceratops, a big one, lying on its side, blocking the light at the end of the path. It has an enormous curved shell that flanks its head, two big horns over its eyes, and a third on the end of its nose. It doesn't move, just breathes, loud and raspy, blowing up little clouds of dust with every exhalation.

LEX

I'm scared!

TIM

You're scared of everything.

Fearless, he races up to the animal to check it out. Gennaro has backed off completely and is leaning against a tree, practically grabbing onto it for support.

VOICE (O.S.)

Hi!

GERRY HARDING, fiftyish, is crouched on the ground next to the beast.

HARDING (cont'd)

It's okay, you can approach. Muldoon tranquilized her for me. She's sick.

Grant and Ellie move forward to the animal, almost in a daze. Ellie grabs Grant's arm excitedly and talks under her breath.

ELLIE

An actual, living, breathing triceratops, okay? You know what I mean you know what I mean?! 137A

GRANT

This guy was my number one favorite when I was a kid! more adult

He gets down on his hands and knees, right up next to the animal, and strokes its head.

GRANT (cont'd)

It still is.

He furrows his brow, noticing something, all professional curiosity now. The animal's tongue, dark purple, droops limply from its mouth.

GRANT (cont'd)
Ellie, look at this.

ELLIE
Microvesicles. That's interesting.

She scratches the tongue with her fingernail. A clear liquid leaks from the broken blisters.

ELLIE (cont'd)
What are her symptoms?

HARDING
Imbalance, disorientation, labored breathing. Seems to happen about every six weeks or so.

ELLIE
May I?

She takes the penlight from the veterinarian and shines it in the animal's eyes.

Tim, fascinated, wanders all the way around to the back of the animal.

ELLIE (cont'd)
You have pupillary effects from the tranquilizer?

HARDING
Yes, miotic, pupils should be constricted.

ELLIE
But these pupils are dilated.

HARDING
They are?
(checks it out)
I'll be damned.

ELLIE
That's pharmacological. From local plant life, one would think.

She turns and studies the surrounding landscape. Her mind's really at work, puzzling over each piece of foliage.

ELLIE (cont'd)
(pointing)
Is that West Indian lilac?

HARDING
Yes. We know they're toxic, but the animals don't eat them.

42 CONTINUED: 3

42

ELLIE

You're sure?

HARDING

Pretty sure.

ELLIE

Only one way to be positive.

CUT TO:

42A INT CONTROL ROOM DAY

42A

HAMMOND and ARNOLD are watching the video monitors, displeased about something. Arnold is looking at one that gives them a view from the beach, looking out at the ocean. The clouds beyond are almost black with a tropical storm.

ARNOLD

That storm center hasn't dissipated or changed course. I'd like to cut the tour short and pick up tomorrow where we left off.

(X)

(X)

HAMMOND

You're sure we have to?

ARNOLD

Not worth taking the chance, John.

HAMMOND

(nods)

Tell them when they get back to the cars. Damn.

ACROSS THE ROOM,

NEDRY stares at his video monitor, watching the boat. He's on the phone with the MATE, whose image he can also see on the monitor. The seas around the dock are much rougher now.

MATE

We're not well-berthed here without a storm barrier! We may have to leave as soon as the last of the workers is aboard.

NEDRY

(low voice)

No. Stick to the plan. Not till the tour gets back.

CUT TO:

42B EXT FIELD DAY

42B

As the weather grows darker, ELLIE, GRANT, HARDING, and MALCOLM are grouped around an enormous spoor of triceratops excreta that stands at least waist high and is covered in BUZZING flies.

MALCOLM

That is one big pile of shit.

Ellie has plastic gloves on that reach up to her elbows, and is just withdrawing her hand from the middle of the dung.

ELLIE

(to Harding)

You're right. There's no trace of lilac berries. It's odd, though. The animal shows all the classic signs of Melia toxicity.

(thinking aloud)

Every six weeks --

She turns and walks out into the open field a few paces, thinking. Malcolm watches her, and looks back at the dung.

MALCOLM

(to Grant)

She's, uh -- tenacious.

GRANT

You have no idea.

MALCOLM

(to Ellie)

You will be sure to wash your hands before eating anything?

CUT TO:

43 INT CONTROL ROOM DAY

43

DENNIS NEDRY is busily and surreptitiously typing a series of commands into his console. On his screen, a cartoon hand winds up a cartoon clock, moving its second hand up to the twelve. The clock rotates around to face us.

It has a large green dollar sign in the middle. A big word appears on screen, an option surrounded by a forbidding red box. "EXECUTE," it says.

CUT TO:

44 EXT PARK DAY

44

The skies are really foreboding now, and there's a sense of growing urgency. TIM is behind the animal now, staring down at a pile of smooth rocks on the ground. He's holding one in his hand, staring at it curiously. In the background, ELLIE, GRANT and MALCOLM are at the front of the animal, thinking.

GRANT

Something about the periodicity doesn't add up.

Tim holds one of the smooth rocks up and calls out, a little timidly.

TIM

These look kind of familiar.

13

GRANT

Triceratops was a constant browser, and constant browsers would be constantly sick, not just every six weeks.

TIM

I've seen pictures of these!

Grant turns and looks at him, a little annoyed.

GRANT

Where?

TIM

Um -- in your book.

Grant just rolls his eyes, but Ellie comes over and checks out the stones. A light goes on in her eyes.

ELLIE

Gizzard stones!

Grant and Malcolm join her. Ellie and Grant look at each other in amazement. As before, when they get excited, they talk right over each other.

GRANT

El, that's it, it explains the periodicity, the the the --

ELLIE

-- the undigested state of the berries because it's it's it's --

GRANT

-- totally incidental to the feeding pattern --

TIM

What are you guys saying?

ELLIE

(turning to Tim)

It's very simple. Some animals that don't have teeth --

GRANT

-- like birds --

ELLIE

-- right, like birds --

GRANT

-- what they do is swallow rocks and keep them in a muscular sack in their stomachs --

ELLIE

-- yeah, see, that's called a gizzard, and it helps them mash their food, but what happens what happens --

Malcolm and Gennaro look from one to the other, not sure who to follow.

GRANT

-- is after a while, say, every six weeks, the rocks get worn smooth, so the animal regurgitates them --

ELLIE

(for Tim)

-- barfs them up --

GRANT

-- and swallows fresh ones.

ELLIE

And when she doesn't, she swallows the poison berries too. And that's when she gets sick.

(impressed)

Good work, Tim.

She looks at Grant pointedly. Tim looks up at Grant too, smiling from ear to ear. Grant just GRUNTS, not so easily convinced.

THUNDER rumbles as the storm overhead is about to bust loose. GENNARO, scared of more than one thing now, puts his foot down.

GENNARO

Doctors, if you please -- I have to insist we get moving.

ELLIE

I'd like to stay with Dr. Harding and finish with the trike, if we have time.

44

HARDING

Sure. I've got a gas powered jeep.
I can drop her at the visitor's center before I make the boat with the others.

ELLIE

Okay. Why don't you go on ahead, Alan.

GRANT

Okay.

There is a lightning flash now, with a tooth-rattling THUNDERCLAP right on its heels.

GENNARO

Now.

Grant turns and follows the others, Lex right in his tracks.
Ellie and Harding go back to the triceratops, which is starting to come back to life.

As Grant reaches the stand of trees, he turns back for one last look at Ellie. He raises his hand to wave, but she is turned the other way. Feeling silly, he drops his hand and goes into the woods. Just as he does, Ellie turns and waves to him, but with his back turned, he misses it top.

In this way, they say goodbye.

BACK AT THE CARS,

as the reflections of the GROUP approach, the first raindrops fall on the windshields of the tour vehicles. They're big, fat drops, and they kick up little clouds of dust as they SMACK into the glass.

It's going to be a hell of a storm.

HAMMOND is with RAY ARNOLD, staring at the video screens.

47 CONTINUED:

47

ARNOLD

I found a way to re-route through the program. I'm turning the cars around in a rest area loop.

HAMMOND

Rotten luck, this storm. Get my grandkids on the radio will you? I don't want them worrying about a little rain.

Arnold reaches for the hand microphone.

ACROSS THE ROOM,

DENNIS NEDRY, sweat forming on his upper lip now, is staring at his video monitor. The supply boat is still docked on the island shore, but is now being buffeted by heavy waves. Nedry whispers sharply into the phone, arguing with the MATE of the ship again, who he can see on the video monitor.

MATE

There's nothing I can do! If the Captain says we gotta go, we gotta go!

NEDRY

Give me fifteen minutes!

MATE

No promises!

NEDRY

I'll be there in ten!

He SLAMS the phone down, a little louder than he intended.

Arnold SNAPS a button on his console.

ARNOLD

Visitor vehicles are on their way back to the garage.

HAMMOND

So much for our first tour. Two no-shows and a sick triceratops.

ARNOLD

It could have been worse, John. It could have been a lot worse.

Dennis Nedry stands up.

He's shaking in his shoes, but trying like hell to be casual.

47 CONTINUED:

47

NEDRY
Anybody want a Coke?

Hammond and Arnold shake their heads. Nedry starts for the door, then turns back with an afterthought that is so rehearsed it's almost obvious.

NEDRY (cont'd)
Oh, I finished de-bugging the phones, but the system's compiling for eighteen minutes. One or two minor systems may switch on and off.

They nod absently. Nedry turns, stretches one finger out to his screen, and selects an option.

"EXECUTE."

At the same time, he presses the start button on a digital stopwatch he holds in his hand. A digital clock on the computer screen starts to tick down from sixty seconds, and a musical clock starts to sound too -- something like the "Jeopardy" theme.

CUT TO:

48 EXT PARK ROAD NIGHT

48

Night has completely fallen now, and the rain has started. It's a tropical storm, the rain falling in drenching sheets on the roofs and hoods of the Explorers, which are making their way slowly back to the visitor's center.

IN THE REAR CAR,

GRANT and MALCOLM are alone. Grant is staring out the window, lost in his thoughts.

GRANT
You got any kids?

MALCOLM
Me? Oh, hell yes. Three.
(glowing) I love kids. Anything at all can and does happen.

He takes a flask from his jacket pocket and unscrews the top. His expression darkens.

MALCOLM (cont'd)
Same with wives, for that matter.

GRANT
You're married?

DENNIS NEDRY waits outside the silver door marked "EMBRYONIC

NEDRY
Two -- one --

On cue, the security lock panel goes dark and the door CLUNKS ajar.

IN THE COOLER,

Nedry hurries in and flips open the hatch on the bottom of the shaving cream can, revealing slotted compartments inside. He goes to a rack of dozens of thin glass slides. A sign says "VIABLE EMBRYOS -- HANDLE WITH EXTREME CARE!"

He takes the slides out of the rack one by one. They're labelled -- "STEGOSAURUS", "APATOSAURUS", "TYRANNOSAURUS REX" -- and puts them into the can.

glowing red and blue lines are blinking off, in succession.

ARNOLD
That's odd.

HAMMOND comes up behind him; as does ROBERT MULDOON.

MALCOLM

By the way, Dr. Sattler wouldn't happen to be, uh, available, would --

GRANT

Why?

MALCOLM

Oh, I'm sorry. Are you two, uh --

GRANT

Yes. No.

MALCOLM

Which is it?

The cars jerk to a stop. The lights in the vehicles and along the road go out, plunging them into blackness. Grant jerks his hands away from the steering column, immediately assuming it's his fault.

GRANT

IN THE FRONT CAR,

TIM

(excited)

Blackout!

CUT TO:

54 EXT JURASSIC PARK NIGHT

54

Nedry's jeep SPLASHES up to the giant gates that lead into Jurassic Park. NEDRY jumps out and hurries to the control panel on the side of one of the cement supports. He FLICKS a switch and the gates CLICK unlocked.

He jumps back in the car and noses it into the gates, shoving them open far enough to drive through.

54 CONTINUED:

Woah woah woah what the hell what the hell?

HAMMOND

What now?

ARNOLD

Fences are failing, all over the park! A few minor systems, he said!

HAMMOND

(to Muldoon, pissed)

Find Nedry! Check the vending machines.

Muldoon heads for the door just as all the video monitors in the control room go out with a faint electronic ZIP. The three of them freeze for a moment, looking at each other. The tension in the room goes up a notch.

HAMMOND

(to Arnold)

Use Nedry's terminal. Get it all back on. He can de-bug later.

Arnold pushes off on the floor and whizzes over to Nedry's master terminal in his chair. With one stroke of his arm, he brushes all the loose junk off of Nedry's station -- junk food, soda cans, torn out magazine pages -- and tries to work.

The "Jeopardy"-type music is playing a little faster now.

Muldoon steps forward, growing alarmed.

MULDOON

The raptor fences aren't out, are they?

ARNOLD

No, they're still on.

A wire mesh fence in front of us has a very clear sign:

DANGER! ELECTRIFIED FENCE!
This Door Cannot Be Opened
When Fence is Armed!

A hand reaches out, grabs the fence by the bare wire, flips a latch, and shoves the door open. No sparks fly.

DENNIS NEDRY runs from the fence back to his jeep, drops it in gear, and tears off down the park road. The rain is absolutely flowing down now, and the road is rapidly turning to mud.

IN THE JEEP,

Nedry can barely see through the windshield. He's driving as fast as possible, checking his watch every few seconds.

He leans forward, squinting to see through the windshield, wiping off the condensation with his free hand. A fork in the road rushes into view. He jumps on the brakes -- too late.
The jeep careens into a signpost.

NEDRY

Shit!

He throws the door open and hurries to the fallen sign: "To The Docks". He props it up - the directional arrow swings hopelessly on a nail. He clenches his jaw and growls.

Soaked, Nedry stomps back to his car, grabs a map off the passenger seat and consults it quickly. Although he doesn't look too convinced, he drops the car in gear and speeds off to the left.

Arnold whisks across the floor in his chair and snatches up the

ARNOLD

HAMMOND

CUT TO:

58 EXT TYRANNOSAUR PADDOCK NIGHT

58

BAAAA! The goat that was brought up from underground earlier is still tethered in the same place, BLEATING in the pouring rain.

The two Explorers sit dead still in the middle of the road. A man's form races back from the front car to the rear car.

IN THE REAR CAR,

GRANT, soaking wet, gets back into the car and closes the door behind him. MALCOLM turns to him.

GRANT

Their radio's out too. Gennaro said to sit tight.

MALCOLM

The kids okay?

GRANT

I didn't ask. Why wouldn't they be?

MALCOLM

Kids get scared.

GRANT

What's to be scared about? Just a little hiccup in the power.

58 CONTINUED:

58

MALCOLM

I didn't say I was scared.

He turns and looks out at the driving rain, and the fence that stands between them and the tyrannosaur paddock. He is scared.

59 IN THE FRONT CAR,

59

GENNARO, LEX, and TIM wait, bored. The rain drums on the roof monotonously. Tim is upside down in the front seat, his head dangling in the passenger well.

TIM

I got stuck upside down on the Cyclone for almost an hour once.

GENNARO

(to himself)

I can't believe I invited Malcolm.

TIM

People were gettin' bloody noses -- aneurisms --

LEX

(a little dreamy)

I think Mr. Grant is really -- smart.

GENNARO

Now he'll write a bunch of papers, go on Oprah, say we're irresponsible --

LEX

Beards used to scare me when I was little. But I think that's really juvenile.

Tim finds something under the seat and sits up abruptly, holding what looks like a heavy-duty pair of safety goggles.

TIM

Cool! What're these?!

GENNARO

If they're heavy, they're expensive. Put them down.

He leans back and closes his eyes. Tim ignores him and puts on the goggles. Lex, in back, sits back and drapes her legs over the front seat, BANGING them against it.

BOOM. BOOM. BOOM.

59 CONTINUED:

59

She looks out her window and sees the goat, still stuck out in the rain.

LEX

Poor thing.

Tim pops up in front of her, wearing the goggles.

TIM

BOO!

LEX

Timmy.

He climbs into the back seat and stares out the back window of the Explorer, into the night. He reaches up and adjusts the focus on the goggles, turning two large rings on the fronts of the lenses.

Through the goggles, Tim can clearly see the Explorer with Grant and Malcolm in it behind him. The image is a bright fluorescent green.

TIM

Wow! Night-vision!

As Tim watches, the door of the rear Explorer opens and a hand reaches out, holding an empty canteen out to catch some rain water.

60 IN THE REAR CAR,

60

Grant pulls the canteen back in, closes the door, and takes a drink. He and Malcolm wait.

61 IN THE FRONT CAR,

61

While Tim stares out the windows with the goggles, Lex keeps BANGING her legs against the seat.

BOOM. BOOM. BOOM.

TIM

Did you feel that?

They don't answer. Tim reaches forward and stills Lex's kicking legs. He jumps back into the front seat.

GENNARO

(jostled)

Hey.

Tim pulls off the goggles and looks at two clear plastic cups of water that sit in recessed holes on the dashboard. As he watches, the water in the glasses vibrates, making concentric circles --

61 CONTINUED:

61

-- then it stops --

-- and then it vibrates again. Rhythmically.

Like from footsteps.

BOOM. BOOM. BOOM.

Gennaro's eyes snap open as he feels it too. He looks up at the rear view mirror.

There is a security pass hanging from it that is bouncing slightly, swaying from side to side.

As Gennaro watches, his image bounces too, vibrating in the rear view mirror.

BOOM. BOOM. BOOM.

GENNARO

(not entirely convinced)

M-Maybe it's the power trying to come back on.

Tim jumps into the back seat and puts the goggles on again. He turns and looks out the side window. He can see the area where the goat is tethered. Or was tethered. The chain is still there, but the goat is gone.

BANG!

They all jump, and Lex SCREAMS as something hits the plexiglass sunroof of the Explorer, hard. They look up.

It's a disembodied goat leg.

GENNARO (cont.)

Oh, Jesus. Jesus.

Tim whips around to look out the side window again. His mouth pops open, but no sound comes out. Through the goggles, he sees an animal claw, a huge one, gripping the cables of the "electrified" fence.

Tim whips the goggles off and presses forward, against the window. He looks up, up, then cranes his head back further, to look out the sunroof. Past the goat's leg, he can see -- -- Tyrannosaurus rex. It stands maybe twenty-five feet high, forty feet long from nose to tail, with an enormous, boxlike head that must be five feet long by itself. The remains of the goat are hanging out of the rex's mouth. It tilts its head back and swallows the animal in one big gulp.

Gennaro can't even speak. His hand claws for the door handle, he shoulders it open, and takes off, out of the car.

61

LEX
(freaking out)
He left us! He left us alone!

62 ON THE ROAD,

62

Gennaro runs away, as fast as he can, right past the second car, toward a cement block house twenty or thirty yards away. He reaches it, ducks inside, and pulls the door after him -- -- but there's no latch, just a round hole in the unfinished door. Gennaro backs into a corner, frantic.

63 IN THE REAR CAR,

63

Grant and Malcolm are turned in the direction Gennaro went.

GRANT
What the hell is he doing?

Malcolm looks the other way, out the passenger window. As he watches, the fence begins to buckle, its posts collapsing into themselves, the wires SNAPPING free.

MALCOLM
What the --

Grant now turns and watches as, ahead of them, the "DANGER!" sign SMACKS down on the hood of the first Explorer. The entire fence is coming down, the posts collapsing, the cables SNAPPING as -- -- the T-rex chews its way through the barrier.

They watch in horror as the T-rex steps over the ruined barrier and into the middle of the park road. It just stands there for a moment, swinging its head from one vehicle to the other.

64 IN THE FRONT CAR,

64

Tim leaps into the front and pulls the driver's door shut. The rex strides around to that side of the car and peers down, from high above.

Both kids are terrified, breathing hard, unable to speak.

65 IN THE REAR CAR,

65

MALCOLM
Boy, do I hate being right all the time.

The T-rex turns and strides quickly back toward them. It circles, slowly, bending over to look in at them through the window.

65 CONTINUED:

65

Grant and Malcolm sit trembling in the front seat, watching as the giant legs stride past their windows.

GRANT

(a quivery whisper)
Don't move -- don't move -- his vision's based on movement!

MALCOLM

You're sure?!

GRANT

(pause) Relatively.

Malcolm freezes as the rex bends down and peers right in through his window. The dinosaur's giant, yellowing eye is only slightly smaller than the entire pane of glass.

The T-rex pulls away slightly, then reaches down and BUMPS the car with its snout, rocking it.

66 IN THE FRONT CAR,

66

Lex is rummaging around in the glove compartment, looking for something, anything. She finds a flashlight.

TIM

Lex, don't --

67 ON THE ROAD,

67

the front car lights up from within as Lex switches on the flashlight.

The dinosaur raises its head. It turns slowly from the second car to the first car, drawn by the light. Making a decision, it strides over to the first vehicle. Fast.

68 IN THE FRONT CAR,

68

Tim and Lex have managed to turn the flashlight off, but they can only stare out the windows as the T-rex reaches their car and starts to circle it.

LEX

I'm sorry -- I'm sorry --

TIM

Shhhhhh!

The T-rex bends down and looks in through the front windshield of the car, then the side window. Tim is eye to eye with the thing for a second, then the dinosaur raises its head up, above the car.

68 CONTINUED:

68

The Kids look up, through the sunroof, as the head goes higher, and higher, and higher, and then the rex turns, looks straight down at them through the sunroof, opens its mouth wide and --

-- ROARS.

The windows RATTLE, Lex SCREAMS, the flashlight goes on again, and the tyrannosaur strikes.

SMASH! The thing's head hits the plastic sunroof, knocking the whole frame right out of the roof of the car and down into the vehicle. The bubble falls down onto Tim and Lex, trapping them, and the animal lunges down, through the hole, SNAPPING at them.

The plexiglass holds, though, and protects Tim and Lex even as it pins them to the seats. The T-rex continues to push down, and the glass GROANS, crack lines racing across it.

Tim, whose feet were caught above him, pushes back, only an inch of glass between him and the dinosaur's teeth.

69 IN THE REAR CAR,

69

Grant and Malcolm watch in horror as the dinosaur claws at the side of the vehicle with one of its powerful hind legs.

It pushes, starting to tip the car over.

70 IN THE FRONT CAR,

70

the glass windows SHATTER, the Kids are thrown to the side, and the Explorer tilts.

The rex bends down and nudges the car with its head, rolling it up on its side. Tim and Lex tumble around.

71 ON THE ROAD,

71

the T-rex starts to nudge the Explorer toward the barrier. Over the barrier, there is a gentle terraced area at one side where the rex emerged from, but the car isn't next to that, it's next to a sharp precipice, representing a fifty or sixty foot drop.

The car, upside down now, is pushed near the edge.

The rex towers over the car. Like a dog, it puts one foot on the chassis and tears at the undercarriage with its jaws. Biting at anything it can get hold of, it rips the rear axle free, tosses it aside, and bites into a tire.

The tire EXPLODES, startling the animal.

72 INSIDE THE CAR,

72

Tim and Lex are trapped inside the rapidly flattening car. As the frame continues to buckle, they crawl toward the open rear window, the car collapsing behind them. Mud and rain water pour into what little space there is left.

Tim is ahead, nearing the back window, when there is a CRUNCH and a seat comes down, pinning him.

73 ON THE ROAD,

73

the dinosaur backs up, dragging the Explorer, swinging it left and right. It seems ready to fling it over the edge.

Grant gets out of his car. He's holding a flare in one hand, which he pulls the top off of. Bright flames shoot out the end of it.

GRANT

Hey! Over here! HEY!

The T-rex turns and looks at him. Grant tosses the flare over the edge of the barrier. The rex watches the flare -- -- and lunges after it.

Malcolm sees his opportunity. He leaps out of the car and takes off down the road, running for his life to the cement block house Gennaro went into earlier.

The T-rex sees the movement. It whirls and takes off after Malcolm, fast. Its tail SNAPS around and CRACKS into Grant, who was trying like hell to get out of the way. He's sent flying, and lands near the first vehicle.

Malcolm runs as fast as he can, approaching the cement house just steps ahead of the T-rex.

But not far enough ahead. Without even slowing down, the rex leans down and flicks Malcolm into the air with its nose.

It's just a nudge for the rex, but it sends Malcolm sailing right through a wood portion of the wall and into the building -- which we realize now is, in fact, a restroom.

74 IN THE RESTROOM,

74

Gennaro, who cowers in a corner, SCREAMS as the head of the T-rex EXPLODES through the front of the building, sending chunks of cement flying in all directions inside. The roof collapses; Gennaro protects himself from the falling junk.

75 ON THE ROAD,

75

Grant gets to his feet and watches as the T-rex noses around in the rubble.

75 CONTINUED:

75

It seems to find something. It lunges, and Grant can hear Gennaro SCREAMING, the sound piercing --

-- until it abruptly stops.

Grant scrambles over to the car. He lays on the ground, looks inside, and sees Lex staring up at him, conscious, her face covered in mud.

Grant reaches in and drags her out.

GRANT

Your brother?

LEX

He's knocked out!

GRANT

Are you okay?

Lex, staring over his shoulder, SCREAMS. Grant whirls, covering her mouth at the same time.

GRANT (cont'd)

(a whisper)

Shhh! He can't see us if we don't move!

Lex looks at him like he's crazy, but freezes. They wait.

BOOM! A big T-rex foot smacks down in front of them as the dinosaur approaches the car again. It leans down, right past them, and SNIFFS the car, ragged bits of flesh and clothing hanging from its teeth.

Not finding anything, the dinosaur swings its head away, SNORTING loudly through its nose. Grant's hat flies off his head. Still, he doesn't move.

The rex walks to the back of the car. It bends down.

WHAP! The car spins as it is pushed from behind by the rex. Grant and Lex are pushed in front of it, helpless. They scramble around on their knees, trying to keep ahead of the car, which the rex is now pushing even closer to the edge of the barrier.

Grant and Lex crawl quickly, but the car is moving faster, catching up to them.

76 INSIDE THE CAR,

76

Tim awakens and SCREAMS. He tries to untangle himself.

77 ON THE ROAD,

77

the T-rex looms over Lex and Grant, who are trapped between the car and the sixty foot drop.

78 INSIDE THE CAR,

78

the rex bends down and sees Tim. Tim backs away, furiously, but there's almost no room to move in here. The rex opens its mouth wide and stretches its tongue into the car.

Tim screams and kicks as the tongue tries to wrap around him. But it fails, and withdraws from the car.

79 ON THE ROAD,

79

the T-rex ROARS in frustration. It bends down for one final lunge at the car.

Grant sees it coming. He grabs Lex and puts her on his back.

GRANT

Hang on!

She wraps her arms around his neck. He scrambles to the edge of the barrier, grabs one of the dangling fence cables, and starts to climb down!

The cable is slick with rain, and it's all Grant can do to hang on as he and Lex slide rapidly down. Above them, the vehicle is now teetering over the edge, threatening to drop right on top of them if they don't hurry.

Grant GASPS, as Lex has unwittingly started to choke him as she holds on for dear life.

The car GROANS, nearly over the edge now. Grant looks to the side.

There are other cables, out of the line of the car's impending drop. His feet scrambling along the concrete wall, Grant tries to swing over toward one.

But he falls short. His momentum carries them back the other way, but on the second swing he manages to grab hold of the second cable.

The car falls. Lex and Grant are clear by inches, clinging to the second cable.

LEX

Timmy!

The car CRUNCHES into the leafy top of a tree, resting on its roof some fifteen feet below them.

Lex and Grant look back up. The T-rex stares down at them, but they are safely out of its reach.

79 CONTINUED:

79

It ROARS once more, in a final fit of frustration, turns --
-- and walks away.

JOHN HAMMOND is livid.

HAMMOND

I will kill Nedry. I will kill him.

Muldoon bursts through the door.

HAMMOND

(to Muldoon)

Well?

MULDOON

No sign on him anywhere.

The game show music is louder and faster now, very annoying.

HAMMOND (cont'd)

Could somebody please turn that music off?!

RAY ARNOLD's cigarette is practically burning his lips, down to almost nothing in his mouth. He hovers over Nedry's computer terminal, which is a mass of incomprehensible commands that scroll by quickly as he futilely examines each one of them.

ELLIE stares at Arnold in amazement.

ELLIE

Are you doing something?!

ARNOLD

I ran a Keycheck on every stroke Nedry entered today. Pretty standard stuff, until this one --

He points to his computer screen, to a specific series of commands. The others crowd over his shoulder and stare at the screen.

79A CONTINUED:

ARNOLD (cont'd)

"Keycheck/safety/sl off." He's turning off the safety systems. He doesn't want anybody to see what he's about to do. Now look at his next entry, it's the kicker.

"Wht.rbt.obj." Whatever it did, it did it all. But with Keychecks off, the computer didn't file the keystrokes. Only way to find them now is to search the computer's lines of code one by one.

ELLIE

How many lines of code are there?

ARNOLD

'Bout two million.

There is a very tense pause while the gravity of their situation sinks in.

HAMMOND

(to Muldoon)

Robert -- take a gas jeep and go get my grandkids.

MULDOON

No sweat.

ELLIE

I'm going with you.

They head for the door. Hammond turns, staring out the windows at the front of the control room. He's gone pale, and he's sweating, wrapped up in a million thoughts. Behind him, Ray Arnold's voice calls to him, but he doesn't hear it.

79A CONTINUED:

ARNOLD

John -- John --

Hammond leans on his cane, and for the first time he looks like he's actually using it.

ARNOLD (cont'd.)

Hammond turns, finally hearing him.

ARNOLD (cont'd.)

I can't get Jurassic Park back on line without Dennis Nedry.

CUT TO:

80 EXT PARK ROAD NIGHT

80

As the rain continues to pour down, a gas-powered jeep ROARS down another park road.

81 INT JEEP NIGHT

81

DENNIS NEDRY drives the jeep as fast as he can in the treacherous conditions. He MUTTERS to himself, shaking his head.

NEDRY

Shoulda been there by now -- shoulda been there --

He hauls it around a corner and looks down, checking his watch. When he looks back up, his eyes go wide.

There's a cement wall, right in front of him. He SHOUTS and stands on the brakes as hard as he can. The jeep fishtails, skidding out of control in the mud toward the wall.

Nedry hauls the wheel hard to the side to try to control the skid, but the jeep skids off the road, going halfway over a muddied embankment.

NEDRY (cont'd)

God damn it!

He drops the car in reverse and hits the gas.

The wheels spin, sending mud flying everywhere, but the jeep goes nowhere, just digs in further.

Nedry can't believe it. He POUNDS the dashboard in fury, but stops suddenly when he sees something.

Through the windshield, he can see another park road, down the sloping embankment, about twenty feet below.

81 CONTINUED:

81

There is a large sign alongside the road.

Nedry leans forward excitedly and rubs the condensation off the window to get a better look at the sign. It reads "TO EAST DOCK."

NEDRY (cont'd)

All right!

He cautiously drops the jeep in forward and hits the gas. But she ain't goin' nowhere.

Nedry makes a decision. He opens the glove compartment and takes out a flashlight and the shaving cream can. He shoves the can in his jacket pocket and gets out of the jeep.

ON THE HILLSIDE,

Nedry CRANKS a winch from its coil on the front end of the jeep.

NEDRY

(mumbling)

Winch this sucker off the thing -- tie it to a thing -- pull it down the thing --

He slips and slides down the muddy embankment, across the road below, and goes to a sturdy-looking tree on the other side.

From the distance, there is a soft HOOTING sound. Nedry flashes the light around him in a few directions, looking for the source of it. He doesn't find it. He checks his watch and goes back to what he was doing, but faster.

NEDRY (cont'd)

Two minutes, no problem -- pop this thing right down --

The HOOTING comes again and Nedry looks up, getting rattled. He freezes, noticing something in the distance.

It's called a dilophosaur. It stands only about four feet high, is spotted like an owl, and has a brilliant colored crest that flanks its head. It doesn't look very dangerous.

NEDRY (cont'd)

Oh. Uh -- nice boy. Nice boy.
Okay. Run along.

He secures the winch and starts across the road, back up the embankment. The dilophosaur hops along behind him like a kangaroo. It circles around and pops up next to him, HOOTING playfully.

81 CONTINUED:

NEDRY (cont'd)
Go on! Go home! Dinner time! Are you hungry? They'll feed you! Go, boy. Girl, whatever.

The dilophosaur just stares at Nedry, tilting its head curiously. Nedry looks around on the ground and finds a stick.
He throws it as far as he can.

NEDRY (cont'd) Fetch!

The dilophosaur gets into the spirit of the game, but not the object. It hops around, ducking around a tree and popping out on the other side, HOOTING.

NEDRY (cont'd)
What's the matter with you?

He shakes his head and continues up the embankment, MUTTERING to himself.

NEDRY (cont'd)
Walnut brain -- extinct kangaroo -- hope I run you over on the way down --

He's near the top when the dilophosaur suddenly hops out right in front of him, startling him. Nedry loses his balance and falls back, on his rear.

He gets to his feet, angry.

NEDRY (cont'd)
I said --

He picks up a rock and chucks it at the thing.

NEDRY (cont'd)
-- beat it!

The rock hits the dinosaur and it HOOTS a few times, its feelings hurt. It hops out of the way.

Nedry reaches the top of the embankment and goes to the winch, turning the crank to tighten it. The slack in the cable is taken up.

The HOOT comes again, from about twenty feet away. Nedry looks up.

The dilophosaur is staring at him from halfway up the embankment. As Nedry watches, the animal rears its head back and snaps it forward sharply.

NEDRY (cont'd)

What are you do --

SPLAT! A big glob of something wet SMACKS into the middle of Nedry's chest. He reaches down and touches the goo that's dribbling down his jacket.

NEDRY (cont'd)

That's disgusting!

SPLAT! Another gob of goo SMACKS into the headlight, right next to Nedry's head.

He stands up. A look of confusion crosses his face. He lifts his right hand, the one that he touched the spit with, and looks at it strangely, flexing it.

Now the dilophosaur HISSES. The brightly colored fan around its neck flares wildly, two bulbous sacks on either side of its neck inflate, it rears its head back again -- -- and it spits.

POW! This time the lugie hits Nedry right smack in the face. He SCREAMS and rubs it away, frantically.

Because it hurts. Like hell. Nedry falls back, clawing at his eyes, in excruciating pain. He pulls his hands away and gets to his feet, starting to hyperventilate. He flails his arms in front of him, blinking a mile a minute, but blinded.

He staggers forward, to try to get into the jeep. He gets the door open, but SMACKS his head on the door frame and collapses.

The dilophosaur sits where it is on the embankment. It HOOTS.

Nedry gets to his feet again and staggers in the general direction of the jeep. He reaches the open door and feels his way in. He SLAMS the door, holding his eyes in pain, crying.

There is another HOOT. From inside the jeep.

Nedry turns and SCREAMS. The dilophosaur is right there, in the passenger seat. It HISSES louder than ever, its crest fans angrily, vibrating, reaching a crescendo --

-- and the thing pounces, SLAMMING Nedry back against the driver's window, SHATTERING it. The shaving cream can flies out of Nedry's jacket pocket --

-- and lands in the mud on the hillside. As Nedry SHRIEKS, the rain and mud wash over the can, already starting to bury it.

83 EXT PARK GROUNDS NIGHT

83

The rain has all but stopped now. GRANT and LEX are at the bottom of the large barrier leading up to the park road. Like it or not, they're in the park now, and are surrounded by thick jungle foliage on all sides. They're both beaten up, and Grant's face is covered in blood.

He's bent over a big puddle, splashing water on his face, rinsing the blood off and trying to bring himself to.

Poor Lex is scared as hell. She stands behind Grant, ramrod straight, her breath coming in short, desperate GASPS. Her eyes are wide, and she doesn't look like she can move.

As Grant gets rid of the blood, his injury doesn't look so bad, just a gash on his forehead. He presses a leaf against it to stop the bleeding.

He turns and looks up to the tree the Explorer fell in. It's stuck there, nose down in the thickest top branches.

Lex's GASPS are getting louder. She's terrified.

GRANT

Hey, come on, don't -- don't -- don't -- just -- just --

He touches her, but it's awfully awkward, more of a pat on the head than anything strong or reassured.

But she responds to the contact, hurling herself forward and throwing her arms tightly around his waist. She clamps there, holding on for dear life, SOBBING.

GRANT (cont'd)

Lex, you gotta be quiet, please.
Stop it. Shhhhh.

This seems to quiet her.

GRANT (cont'd)

Because if we make too much noise, he could hear us and come back.

Lex busts out crying again, a WAILING scream, nearly hysterical now. Grant holds her, no idea what to do. He turns and looks around.

GRANT (cont'd)

(a whispered shout)
Timmy?! Timmy!

He hears a CRACKING sound. He looks up to the tree again. The Explorer has fallen a few feet lower into the branches.

83 CONTINUED:

83

Grant looks down at Lex, who is stuck around his waist with no intention of going anywhere. He tries to pry one of her hands off, but she starts to WAIL again.

LEX

Dad -- Dad --

GRANT

Shhh -- I'm right here, Lex. I'll take care of you.

He looks around. A few yards away, there is a large drain pipe that sticks out of the sheer face of the barrier wall. He walks over to it, Lex clinging to him.

GRANT (cont'd)

I have to go help your brother. I want you to sit in here and wait for me.

LEX

He left us! He left us!

GRANT

But that's not what I'm going to do. Okay?

All at once, she lets go and scampers into the drain pipe.

84 EXT TREE NIGHT

84

GRANT takes a deep breath, grabs hold of the first branch, and starts his long climb. Fortunately, it's a good climbing tree, its branches thick and regularly spaced.

Grant moves at a good pace. He reaches the car's level, on the driver's side five or six feet to one side of it.

The car's in rough shape. It's much thinner than it used to be, its nose completely smashed in, the front wheels driven solidly into a thick branch. They are what hold it in place.

Grant comes up to the car and reaches out for the driver's door handle. The door swings open with a CREAK and Grant sticks his head in.

TIM is huddled on the floor on the passenger side, frightened, hugging his knees to his chest.

He looks up at Grant with a tear and blood-streaked face. His (X) voice is barely audible.

TIM

I threw up.

GRANT

That's okay. Give me your hand.

Tim doesn't move.

GRANT (cont'd)

I won't tell anybody you threw up.
Just give me your hand, okay?

He reaches out. Tim reaches too, but they're still about a foot apart. Grant grabs hold of the steering wheel, to pull himself further in. The wheel turns.

On the branch, the front wheels turn, losing a bit of their grip on the thick branch they're resting on.

Tim and Grant grab hands, but just as they do, there is a loud series of SNAPS from outside and the car tumbles, shifting dramatically toward Grant's side before coming to a rest again.

Tim SCREAMS and falls into Grant, but Grant holds on to him, getting an arm securely around his waist. They practically fall out the driver's door, just as the whole car starts to sway again, above them now.

Little branches POP like firecrackers all around them as the car shifts and settles into its new location.

But before Grant can even sigh with relief, the car GROANS forward on the branch, which sags toward them.

GRANT

Go, Tim, go! GO!

They climb down, as fast as they can, as the big branch that is supporting the car CREAKS, ready to give way any second.

GRANT (cont'd)

Faster! Faster!

The branch breaks. Disintegrates, really, and the car falls, straight at them.

Grant and Tim let go of the branch they're on and fall, THUDDING into another branch a few feet down. The car SMACKS into the big branch they just vacated, and stops there.

Grant and Tim are half climbing, half falling down the tree now, slipping on the resin-covered branches, just trying like hell to get out of the way.

CREEEE-POW! The second branch breaks, and now the car SMASHES and CRASHES through a network of thinner branches, headed right for them. It hits open space and goes into free fall.

Grant turns, he SHOUTS, he puts up his arms in defense --

84

-- and the car stops, SLAMMING into a thick branch just above him. One of the headlights, still on and fading to a dull orange now, POPS, showering glass over Grant, who manages to protect Tim from it.

Grant looks up, eyeball to eyeball with the front grill, drops of oil falling on his forehead.

The new branch starts to CREAK.

Grant and Tim basically fall down the rest of the tree, the car BASHING its way through right behind them. They jump the last six or seven feet and hit the ground, hard.

Grant grabs Tim and rolls with him, to the side, just as the car SMASHES into the earth, nose first, standing upright that way.

They look up in relief, but the damn thing's still heading for them, now tipping over, falling straight at them, and there's no way they have time to get out of the way this time, so Grant just balls himself up on top of Tim to try to protect him and --

-- CRASH! The jeep falls on top of them. Grant, amazingly unhurt, looks up, confused.

They're inside the jeep again, saved by the hole in the sunroof.

GRANT

I hate cars.

CUT TO:

85 EXT CULVERT NIGHT

85

LEX is still in the culvert, terrified, slowly BANGING her head against the wall.

GRANT is at the mouth of the culvert, pacing, carefully studying the rinky-dink map of the park he picked up during the slide show. TIM is right behind him.

GRANT

Okay -- okay --

He's trying to get his bearings from the crude, cartoon-like drawings on the map, but it's tough. He looks up, picking a direction, and shoves the map in his pocket decisively.

He looks back in at Lex.

85 CONTINUED:

85

GRANT (cont'd)
Come on out, Lex. Hiding isn't a rational solution; we have to improve our situation.

She doesn't move. Grant looks at Tim, who rolls his eyes at his sister.

TIM
(to Grant)
Good luck.

GRANT (cont'd)
Tim's out here, Lex. He's okay.
(still nothing, so he tries a new tack)
'Course, you could just wait in there while we go back and get help.

TIM
Yeah, let's go.

GRANT
You'll probably be safe alone -- maybe -- can't say for sure --

LEX
Liar! You said you wouldn't leave!

GRANT
I'm trying to use psychology to get you out of the culvert!

She just stares at him like he's nuts. Tim shakes his head at Grant, as if to say "nice try." Grant calms his tone.

GRANT (cont'd)
We're just going to walk back home.
Together.

(MORE)

GRANT (cont'd)
But we can't walk back on the road. There are fences on either side, and if the rex is between us and the lodge, we'd -- have problems. He's probably staked out the road as a feeding range, which means this whole paddock is empty. It's safe. So we'll go back through here. What do you say?

He's spoken calmly and confidently, so Lex crawls out of the culvert and stands next to him.

85

GRANT (cont'd)

Ready?

Tim and Lex nod, and he starts off in the direction he indicated. They trail behind him.

GRANT (cont'd)

Might be a little slow, but it can't be more than three or four miles. I'd hoped the rex might be done feeding by now, but let's not kid ourselves, a carnivore can eat up to 25% of its body weight in one sitting, so he's probably just ready to move on to the main course and --

He stops in the middle of his sentence, noticing he's alone. He turns around. Now both kids have scampered all the way back into the culvert, terrified.

GRANT (cont'd)

Good thinking, Alan.

CUT TO:

86 EXT PARK ROAD NIGHT

86

MULDOON and ELLIE race down the park road in an open-topped jeep like the one Nedry took earlier. Neither of them speak, they just stare ahead grimly, wondering what they're about to find.

They round a corner and come to the top of the hill, where the attack took place. The jeep skids to a stop and they jump out.

The road is a rutted, muddy mess. The cement block house is a pile of rubble. One of the Explorers is gone, the other stands untouched, both doors hanging open.

ELLIE

Oh, no. Oh, God no.

13A

She runs to the Explorer. Muldoon runs to the wreckage of the cement house.

AT THE EXPLORER,

Ellie leans in and looks around. Nobody there.

AT THE CEMENT HOUSE,

Muldoon bends down in the middle of the wreckage, looking at something. He pushes his hat back and swallows.

ELLIE

Did you find any --

86 CONTINUED:

86

She runs up and stops, far off to his right.

ELLIE (cont'd)

Aw, God.

MULDOON

I think this was Gennaro.

ELLIE

I think this was too.

But they're standing about twenty yards apart, and looking in different directions. Ellie turns away and bends over, hands on her knees. She breathes hard, trying to keep from retching.

Faintly, down the road in the other direction, they hear the ROAR of the T-rex. They both straighten up, now frightened as well as sickened, and come together on the road.

ELLIE (cont'd)

The rex is ahead of us now.

MULDOON

(nods)

It could be anywhere. With the fences out, it can go in and out of any paddock it wants.

They hear a MOANING sound from somewhere in the wreckage of the restroom building. They rush over to it.

IAN MALCOLM lies on his back, semiconscious among the twisted wood and cement.

MULDOON

It's Malcolm!

He shines his light along the length of Malcolm's body. His shirt is soaked with blood, but his right leg is even worse off. The right ankle is bent outward at a strange angle from the leg, the trousers flattened, soaked with blood.

Malcolm's belt has been twisted around his thigh.

ELLIE

He's put a tourniquet on.

Malcolm GROANS as she touches him, groggy.

MALCOLM

Remind me to thank John for a lovely weekend.

The T-rex ROAR comes again. But closer now. Ellie and Muldoon look at each other.

86

ELLIE

Can we chance moving him?

MALCOLM

Please -- chance it.

They move to opposite sides of Malcolm's body and lift him, as carefully as possible. They carry him over to the jeep and lay him in the back. Ellie turns and looks back at the empty road. She's on the verge of tears, but is fighting them back. Muldoon puts a hand on her shoulder.

MULDOON

I've seen a lot of animal attacks, Ellie. People just disappear. No blood, no trace. That's how it happens.

She shrugs his arm off her shoulder violently. She walks to the edge of the road, her eyes following the deep ruts the Explorer made when it went over the edge.

ELLIE

The other jeep!

87 EXT CLEARING NIGHT

87

Ellie's flashlight beam sprays light on the inside of the wrecked Explorer. ELLIE is on her stomach, peering inside, looking for anything. MULDOON is behind her, nervous. The T-rex ROARS again, closer still.

MULDOON

Uh, Ellie --

Ellie ignores him, desperately searching the ground for any sign of Grant.

88 EXT PARK ROAD NIGHT

88

MALCOLM, laid out in the back of the jeep, feels something strange. He looks down, at one of the T-rex footprints in the road. It's filled with water.

The water in the puddle vibrates rhythmically.

Malcolm's eyes widen. He looks around, frantically.

BOOM. BOOM. BOOM.

MALCOLM

Uh -- anybody? Anybody hear that?

89 EXT CLEARING NIGHT

89

ELLIE is still looking around, to MULDOON's chagrin. Her flashlight falls on three sets of footprints in the mud.

ELLIE

Look!

With her flashlight, she follows the trail the footprints made. They lead into the jungle and disappear.

90 EXT PARK ROAD NIGHT

90

MALCOLM's staring, wide-eyed, at the rings in the water, which are getting bigger now.

MALCOLM

It's a -- an impact tremor is what it is, it, uh --

BOOM. BOOM.

MALCOLM (cont'd)

I'm fairly alarmed here!

ELLIE and MULDOON come up over the embankment, excited, and get in the jeep, Muldoon in the driver's seat.

MULDOON

Once the motion sensors come back on we'll know exactly where they are! We can just go out there and --

MALCOLM

SHUT UP AND LISTEN!

They stop talking. The BOOMING is louder now, and faster. Much faster. They look back, over their shoulders.

ELLIE

Oh.

The tyrannosaur SMASHES out of the jungle foliage, bursts onto the road, and runs straight at them, moving at least thirty miles an hour.

MALCOLM

GOGOGOGOGOGOGOGOGOGO!

Muldoon fumbles for the keys, turns the jeep over, and SLAMS it into gear. He drops the clutch, hits the gas, and tears ass out of there.

But the jeep is slow to work through the first few gears. Terrified, Ellie dares to look down, to the side view mirror, which tells her "Objects Are Closer Than They Appear."

90 CONTINUED:

90

And they sure are. The T-rex is still gaining on the slowly accelerating jeep. All three of them stare back at the rex in terror --

-- which means they don't see the half-fallen tree branch right in front of them, blocking the path of the road. Muldoon looks back first, SHOUTS, and they all duck.

The windshield hits the branch and SHATTERS as the jeep flies ahead, really picking up speed now.

The T-rex just runs right through the branch, SMASHING it entirely. Losing ground now, the dinosaur makes a final lunge for the jeep and CRUNCHES into the left rear quarter panel.

They're bounced around pretty badly. Malcolm is knocked into the front, and in so doing knocks the gear shift into neutral. The engine RACES, the T-rex closes in again --

-- but Muldoon SLAMS it back into gear and guns it. The T-rex gives up, fading into the distance.

They drive in silence for a few moments, all scared out of their wits.

MALCOLM

Think they'll have that on the tour?

CUT TO:

91 EXT PARK GROUNDS NIGHT

91

GRANT, LEX and TIM make their way through Jurassic Park. There's no path for them to follow, so the going is slow.

Tim sees a motion sensor sitting blindly on top of its pole in the middle of the jungle. He runs over and waves his arms at it madly.

TIM

Hey! We're here! We're here!

GRANT

Won't work, Tim. If the power's still off, the motion sensors are too. What's that one say on the bottom?

TIM

(reading)

TS-03.

Grant looks at the map again, checking their position.

91 CONTINUED:

91

GRANT

And the last one was TS-04. Which means we're heading west. Which is good.

(X)

(pause, at the map)
I think.

Tim rejoins them and they walk on. Lex has a firm grip on Grant's hand, and marches in step with him, but Tim stays a few yards to the side, making his own way. He stumbles as they come to a large root system they have to climb over.

GRANT cont'd)

You want to hold my hand?

Tim shakes his head no and climbs determinedly over the root system by himself.

LEX

He'll never hold anybody's hand.
Timmy is a dinosaur. A jerkosaurus.

TIM

Straight-A Brainiac!

LEX

Dorkatops!

GRANT

Could you guys possibly cool that for
a --

Far in the distance, there is another ROAR. Grant hears it, but tries not to show it.

LEX

What was that?

GRANT

I didn't hear anything.

They keep walking, but now Grant is looking around for a safe place to hide. He looks up, to the towering trees around them.

GRANT (cont'd)

You both look pretty tired. I think we should find someplace to rest.

He hears another ROAR.

GRANT (cont'd)

Now.

92 EXT TREE NIGHT

92

LEX, TIM and GRANT climb. Grant is behind, watching the other two, giving them a push up when they need it.

TIM

I hate trees!

GRANT

Me too, Tim.

Now near the top of the tree, the three of them sit there, dangling their legs, looking out over the park.

It's an incredible view. They can see in all directions, and with the full moon, there's a lot of detail. Most striking of all are dozens of sauropod heads, at the end of long necks, that tower over the park.

TIM

Those are brontosauruses -- I mean, brachiosauruses.

GRANT

It's okay to call 'em brontosaurus, Tim. It's a great name. Romantic name. It means "thunder lizard."

TIM

(digging that)
"Thunder lizard!"

Grant finds a solid web of branches and settles himself in it, leaning back against the trunk of the tree, with a little room on either side of him. Lex nestles up next to him on the branch. Grant is surprised, but accepts it.

Tim climbs off to the side, to a nook in the branches of his own. Silent for a moment, the three can hear the HOOTS of the animals as they call. Some are almost musical.

GRANT

Listen! They're singing!

He smiles, enchanted. But after a moment, the smile fades from his face and is replaced by a look of confusion.

GRANT (cont'd)

That's odd, that -- (listens some more)
No, I must be wrong.

92 CONTINUED:

92

TIM

What?

GRANT

Well, of course no one's ever heard one from a dinosaur, but -- that sounds suspiciously like a mating call. But in an all-female environment -- ?

He trails off, thinking about it. He gets an idea and HOOTS himself, trying to imitate one of the calls. Immediately, five or six of the heads turn in their direction and HOOT back.

LEX

Don't do that again! Don't get the monsters over here!

GRANT

They're not monsters, Lex. Just animals. And these are herbivores.

TIM

That means they only eat vegetables.

LEX

Well I hate the other kind.

GRANT

They're just doing what they do.

92

There is a long pause as the three of them just stare out at the park, each lost in their own thoughts. Lex puts her head on Grant's shoulder.

LEX

Are you and Dr. Sattler married?

Tim immediately covers his ears.

TIM

Pteradactyl, Allosaurus, Iguanodon, Oviraptor, Segnosaurus --

LEX

(rolls her eyes)

Timmy always talks about dinosaurs to change the subject.

GRANT

That's okay. So do I.

(X

TIM

So how come if dinosaurs turned into birds, no birds have teeth; but some dinosaurs do?

GRANT

Simple evolution. As birds evolved, they lost their teeth in favor of gizzard stones.

TIM

(got you now)

Yeah, but if it was evolution, shouldn't there be like a missing link or something? Shouldn't there be birds with teeth someplace after dinosaurs died and before regular birds came? Where are birds with teeth?

92

LEX

Huh?

GRANT

I think he's saying that without a link the dinosaur-bird relationship could be simple convergence, not direct evolution.

TIM

I'm saying show me the birds with teeth.

(X)

92

Satisfied, Tim settles in for the night. Grant shifts too, getting comfortable, but something in his pocket pinches him. He winces and digs it out. It's the velociraptor claw he unearthed so long ago in Montana. (X)

Yesterday, actually. He looks at it, thinking a million thoughts, staring at this thing that used to be so priceless.

LEX

What are you and Ellie gonna do now if you don't have to dig up dinosaur bones any more? (X)

GRANT

I guess I'll have to evolve too.

He just lets the claw fall to the ground. Tim yawns, ready to fall asleep now.

TIM

What do you call a blind dinosaur?

GRANT

What?

TIM

A Do-you-think-he-saurus. What do you call a blind dinosaur's dog?

GRANT

You got me.

TIM

A Do-you-think-he-saurus Rex.

Grant laughs. Both kids finally close their eyes, but after a moment, Lex pops hers open again.

LEX

What if the dinosaurs come while we're all asleep?

92

GRANT

I'll stay awake.

LEX

(skeptical)

All night?

GRANT

All night.

94 INT RESTAURANT NIGHT

94

ELLIE comes into the darkened restaurant, following the source of the flickering light. A candle burns at a table in the corner.

JOHN HAMMOND sits at the table, alone. There is a bucket of ice cream in the middle, and he's eating a dish of it, staring down morosely.

Ellie draws up to the table and Hammond looks up at her. His eyes are puffy, his hair is messed up -- for the first time since we've seen him, the fire is gone from his eyes.

HAMMOND

It was all melting.

Ellie just nods. He slides an extra spoon across the table to her. She picks it up, pulls the bucket over to her side of the table, and starts eating.

ELLIE

Malcolm's okay for the moment. I gave him a shot of morphine.

Hammond just nods. They eat in silence for a few moments. A tear runs down Ellie's cheek; she reaches up and brushes it away impatiently.

Hammond notices. He reaches out and puts his hand over hers. He pats it, reassuringly.

HAMMOND

They'll all be fine. Who better to get the children through Jurassic Park than a dinosaur expert?

Ellie just nods. Another pause. Hammond breaks it again.

HAMMOND (cont'd)

Know the first attraction I ever built when I came from Scotland? Flea Circus, Petticoat Lane. Really quite wonderful. Had a wee trapeeze, a roundabout -- what do you call it -- a carousel, a seesaw. They all moved -- motorized, of course, but people would swear they saw the fleas. "I see them, mummy! Can't you see them?" Clown fleas, highwire fleas, fleas on parade...

(he trails off)

Ellie just looks at him, not quite sure of his state. He goes on.

HAMMOND (cont'd)

With this place, I just -- I just wanted to give them something real, something that wasn't an illusion, something they could see and touch -- an idea that's not devoid of merit.

ELLIE

You can't think your way out of this one, John. You have to feel it.

HAMMOND

You're absolutely right. Hiring Nedry was a mistake, that's obvious. We're over-dependent on automation, I see that now. But that's all correctable for next time.

ELLIE

John --

HAMMOND

Creation is an act of sheer will. Next time it will be flawless.

ELLIE

(tapping her head)

John, you're still trying to build onto your Flea Circus. That's illusion. And now you're adding onto it by doing it again here. That's the illusion.

HAMMOND

Once we have control again we --

ELLIE

You never had control! Look, I was overwhelmed by the power of this place. I made a mistake too. I didn't have enough respect for that power, and it's out now. You're talking about picking up the pieces. But there's nothing worth picking up. The only thing that matters are the people we love. And they're out there. Alan, Lex, and Tim. And maybe they're dying.

There is a long pause. Hammond avoids her gaze. Ellie reaches out and takes the whole bucket of ice cream, sinking her spoon into it. She eats. So does Hammond. Finally:

ELLIE (cont'd)

It's good.

He looks up at her, and his face is different, as the unhappy irony of what he's about to say finally hits home.

HAMMOND

Spared no expense.

96 EXT PARK DAWN

96

The sun comes up over Jurassic Park. The danger of the night before is overcome by the sheer beauty of the place -- it really is like the Serengeti Plain.

Over at one edge of a great open field, a huge tree marks the border between the open area and the thick of the jungle.

UP IN THE TREE,

GRANT, TIM, and LEX are asleep in the branches of the tree, both kids now curled up under Grant's arms.

A heavy shadow falls over all three of them, blocking out the sun entirely. Grant awakens, only a little bit asleep, as -- -- a brachiosaur's head pushes into the tree branches, right up beside them. It hesitates there for a second, seemingly staring at them. Grant just watches as it opens its mouth very wide and CHOMPS down on a branch over their heads.

The kids awaken with a start. Tim points, Lex opens her mouth to scream, but nothing comes out.

GRANT

(quietly)

It's okay! It's okay! It's a brachiosaur!

LEX

Go away!

TIM

Veggiesaurus, Lex, veggiesaurus!

But Lex isn't taking any chances and scrambles back, away from its mouth. Tim and Grant come together on the branch, just staring at the dinosaur in wonder as it eats its breakfast.

Tim scampers up to a higher branch and reaches down, petting the brachiosaur's head while it chews. Grant maneuvers in closer. He reaches out and grabs hold of the thing's lip with both hands and pulls it down, revealing the jaw at work. He imitates the animal while he's near it, trying to duplicate its sounds, which seems to have a calming effect.

The dinosaur keeps chewing, not objecting to the inspection.

GRANT

Come on over, Lex! Just think of it as a big cow!

LEX

I like cows --

96 CONTINUED:

96

She tentatively edges forward in the tree, until she is just in front of the brachiosaur's head. She barely touches the thing on the tip of its nose --

-- and it SNEEZES. It's a vast explosion, and Lex falls back against the tree trunk, dripping wet from head to toe. Grant and Tim laugh, but Lex just opens her mouth in shock.

LEX (cont'd)

EEEEEEWWWWWWW!

From far off there is a strange ANIMAL CRY. The brachiosaur seems to hear it and walks away, quickly.

96A ON THE GROUND,

96A

Grant and the kids drop out of the tree.

TIM

Oh, great. Now she'll never try anything!

Lex STOMPS off away from them, embarrassed and ticked off.

TIM (cont'd)

She'll just sit in her room and never come out and play with her computer --

LEX

(over her shoulder)
I'm a hacker!

TIM

That's what I said, Nerd!

GRANT

Oh, my.

Tim and Lex turn. Grant is still crouching on the ground below the tree where he landed, staring at something in the palm of his hand. They both come and look over his shoulder, curious. Grant holds a thin, white fragment in his palm.

GRANT (cont'd)

(thinking aloud)

What gives it away is the patterning on the interior surface, the interior curve.

LEX

What?

96A CONTINUED:

96A

GRANT

See the raised lines, the triangular shapes? And the size. No curvature, it's almost flat. Big. Very big.

TIM

What's big? What is it?

GRANT

It's a dinosaur egg.
(finally looking up)
The dinosaurs are breeding.

Noticing something, he rises slowly to his feet. He follows a trail of tiny white fragments around to the back of the tree. Tim and Lex go with him, and they come around to the back of the tree at the same time. They stare in amazement --

-- at a whole clutch of dinosaur eggs, all hatched, empty now. Grant runs his hand lightly over the egg fragments, absolutely astounded.

TIM

But -- my grandpa said all the dinosaurs were girls!

GRANT

Amphibian DNA!

LEX

What?

GRANT

On the tour -- the film said they used frog DNA to fill in the gene sequence gaps. They mutated the dinosaurs' genetic code, blended it with that of frogs. And some West African frogs have been know to spontaneously change sex from male to female, in a single sex environment. Malcolm was right!

He picks up one of the egg fragments, a large one, nearly half an egg. He looks at a trail of many sets of tiny footprints that leads from the nest into the nearby tall grass.

GRANT (cont'd)

Life found a way!

96B INT CONTROL ROOM DAY

96B

RAY ARNOLD, still at his terminal and looking a mess, stares up at HAMMOND with a look of absolute incredulity on his face.

ARNOLD

No, no, no, that's crazy, you're out of your mind, he's absolutely out of his --

ELLIE and MULDOON hurry over to the debate. MALCOLM, bandaged now but in pain, sits up on one elbow.

ELLIE

What are you guys talking about?!

Hammond turns to her, the twinkle back in his eye.

HAMMOND

A calculated risk, which is about the only option we have left. We will never find the command Nedry used. He covered his tracks too well, and I think it's obvious now he's not coming back. Shutting down the entire system --

ARNOLD

I won't do it. You can get somebody else, because I will not.

HAMMOND

-- shutting down the system is the only way to guarantee wiping out everything he did. If I understand correctly, all the systems should come back on in their original start-up modes, yes?

ARNOLD

Theoretically, yeah, but we've never shut down the whole system. It may not come back on at all.

ELLIE

Would we get the phones back?

ARNOLD

Yeah, again, in theory, but -- (desperate)

What about the lysine contingency?
We could put that into effect!

96B CONTINUED:

96B

ELLIE

What's that?

ARNOLD

It was intended to prevent the spread of the animals in case they ever got off the island, but we could use it now. Dr. Wu inserted a gene that makes a single faulty enzyme in protein metabolism. They can't manufacture the amino acid lysine. Unless they're continually supplied with lysine by us, they'll go into a coma and die.

ELLIE

How would we cut off the lysine?

13

ARNOLD

No trick to it. Just stop running the program. Leave them unattended.

Malcolm, who has dragged himself to his feet and staggered over, speaks up.

MALCOLM

How soon before they become comatose?

ARNOLD

It would be totally painless -- they'd just slip into unconsciousness and expire in their sleep.

MALCOLM

How long before they slip into unconsciousness?

ARNOLD

Uh -- seven days, more or less.

ELLIE

Seven days?! Seven days?!

MALCOLM

What a relief. Your contingency plan has me awash in relief.

Hammond finally loses his cool. He BELLOWS, summoning every ounce of authority at his command. And that's quite a bit.

HAMMOND

PEOPLE ARE DYING!

There is a moment in which no one dares speak. Hammond regains himself.

HAMMOND (cont'd.)

Just shut down the God damn system.

Arnold swallows and gets to his feet. He walks slowly across the room to a red metal box on the wall. He takes a key from his belt, unlocks the door, and opens it.

There is a row of four switches inside. He flips them off, one by one, leaving only a single lever left.

His hand hovers over it.

ARNOLD

You asked for it --

He flips the lever.

ARNOLD (cont'd)

-- and you got it.

Every monitor, every terminal, every fluorescent light shuts out, plunging them into near-darkness.

They just sit in eerie stillness for a moment.

96B

ELLIE
(hushed voice)
How long do we have to wait?

ARNOLD
(version 1)
'Bout a minute.

ARNOLD
(version 2)
'Bout ten seconds.

Hammond goes to a large window at the front and cranks open the Venetian blinds with a WHOOSH. A column of light spills into the place. He picks up a chair that has been upended, brushes off the seat, and sits on it.

They wait, in tense silence. Hammond adjusts the wilting silk handkerchief in his breast pocket. He notices Malcolm staring at him, his eyes full of disapproval.

HAMMOND
I suppose you don't think very much of me now, do you?

MALCOLM
You're all right, John. You just don't have intelligence. You have "thintelligence." You think narrowly and call it "being focused." You don't see the surround. You don't see the consequences. You're very good at solving problems, at getting answers -- but you just don't know the right questions.

ELLIE
Ian --
(he looks at her)
-- shut up.

Finally, Arnold turns back to the box.

ARNOLD
Hold on to your butts.

He flips the row of safety switches back on again, then hesitates by the main switch. He throws it.

And nothing happens.

There is a very long pause.

ARNOLD

Uh --

MULDOON

Which of you knows how to handle a gun?

ELLIE

Oh, my God.

96B

Arnold, who can't quite understand this, races over to the main monitor.

ARNOLD
(joyously)
HAH! It's okay! It's okay! Look!
See that?! LOOK!

They stare at the monitor, which glows with a faint amber light, the only mechanical thing in the room that's on. The left hand corner of the screen displays two words -- /system ready.

Arnold looks at them, his face triumphant.

ARNOLD (cont'd)
It's on! It worked!

MALCOLM
How exactly do you define "worked"?
Everything's still off!

ARNOLD
The shutdown must have tripped the circuit breakers. We just have to turn them back on, reboot a few systems in here -- phones, security doors, half a dozen others -- but it worked! System ready!

MULDOON
Where are the breakers?

ARNOLD
Out in the maintenance shed. Other end of the compound. Three minutes, and I'll have the power back on in the entire park.

CUT TO:

96C EXT COMPOUND DAY

MULDOON and HAMMOND carry a gerry-rigged stretcher with MALCOM on it down a narrow path in the compound. ELLIE is with them.

Ellie takes over Muldoon's end of the stretcher and he hurries off, across the compound.

CUT TO:

96D EXT PARK GROUNDS DAY

96D (X)

GRANT, TIM and LEX walk through the park grounds, heading across a relatively open area. Grant consults the map.

GRANT
The visitor's center should be just about a mile beyond that rise. If we keep --

The ANIMAL CRY they heard earlier is closer now, louder, and repeated by many more animals. Grant looks up.

GRANT (cont'd.)
What is that?

He turns around, to face the direction the sound is coming from. He squints. The ANIMAL CRIES are much louder now, accompanied by a low RUMBLE.

Grant takes a few steps forward. As he watches, he can make out shapes in the distance.

Dinosaurs. Dozens of them. All at once, he figures it out.

GRANT (cont'd.)
STAMPEDE!

And that's exactly what it is, a stampede of at least forty dinosaurs, Gallimimus by name. Lex is ready to get out of there, but Grant and Tim hesitate, staring.

The dinosaurs kick up a flock of birds, which startles them, and they all change direction at once, the same way.

GRANT (cont'd)
Look at the wheeling -- the uniform direction change! Like a flock of birds evading a predator!

Sure enough, they hear a ROAR, the very familiar roar --
-- of Tyrannosaurus rex.

96D CONTINUED:

96D (X)

Grant and the kids whirl at the sound, but can't place it, as it seems to come from all around them. They look back toward the stampede. The herd spontaneously changes direction again, and now they're headed straight at them.

The three of them take off, across the meadow, toward the relative cover of the jungle. It's a real footrace, but the herd is far faster, and Grant knows they're not going to make it.

They jump over a huge root network: There's space under it to hide, and Grant stops the kids, shoves them underneath, then follows them. They cover their heads as the herd THUNDERS over the roots.

Chunks of everything fly everywhere as the herd plows overhead, their clawed feet striking the roots dangerously close to Grant and the kids.

Finally, they pass. Grant peers up, over the top root. He looks toward the trees, which the herd is now running alongside.

a ROAR comes from somewhere within the trees.

Grant scans the trees, looking for any sign of the T-rex --

-- and then it bursts out, ahead of the herd, cutting them off, throwing them into disarray, scattering them everywhere.

They all stare as the rex kicks it into overdrive, runs down one of the gallimims, and sinks its teeth into its neck. The T-rex makes the kill in a cloud of dust and debris.

Tim and Grant half rise to their feet, staring in wonder.

LEX

Come on, you guys! Let's go!

But Grant and Tim are transfixed, watching the T-rex.

GRANT

Watch how it eats!

LEX

Come on!

GRANT

Bet you'll never look at birds the same way again!

Tim nods in fascination. The T-rex pauses in the middle of its meal and ROARS.

96D (X)

LEX

Well, I'm going!

She turns and takes off, running as fast as she can, across the open plain. Tim and Grant tear themselves away and follow her.

102 INT BUNKER DAY

102

The remaining staff from the island -- only about fifteen WORKERS -- are crammed into this underground bunker with HAMMOND, MULDOON, ELLIE, and MALCOLM, who pace impatiently. Like most of the rest of the park, the bunker is still unfinished, unpainted, a lot of unpacked crates around the floor.

Finally, Hammond speaks, still feeling the obligations of the host.

HAMMOND

This is a delay, that's all this is.
All major theme parks have had delays. In 1956, when Disneyland opened, nothing worked.

MALCOLM

Yes, John. But if the Pirates of the Caribbean breaks down, the pirates don't eat the tourists.

Another pause. More pacing.

ELLIE

I can't wait anymore. Something went wrong. I'm going to get the power back on.

MULDOON

I'll ride shotgun.

102 CONTINUED:

102

HAMMOND

No, Ellie, I should be the one to go -- I'm a man.

ELLIE

We'll discuss sexism in survival situations when I get back. You just figure out how to get me there.

They snap into action. Muldoon CLANGS open a steel cabinet, revealing an impressive array of weaponry inside. He removes a huge shotgun and what looks like a small rocket launcher.

Malcolm, blood seeping through his bandages now, works with Hammond. They find a set of blueprints in a corner and spread them out on a crate, getting oriented.

Ellie finds a flashlight with a battery belt and a walkie-talkie in an opened crate. She straps on the belt and clips on the walkie-talkie. She tosses the other radio to Hammond, who catches it.

ELLIE

Think you can follow those and talk us through it?

HAMMOND

Absolutely. Just -- be careful.

Muldoon shoves a shell into the barrel of the rocket launcher, which it accepts with a faint electronic SIZZLE.

MULDOON

No shit.

CUT TO:

103 EXT JUNGLE DAY

103

GRANT, TIM, and LEX scramble through the jungle, completely out of breath, exhausted, Grant practically drags them up the last hill, but they make it, and collapse at the base of the big electrical fence that surrounds the main compound.

Grant looks up at the fence. It must be over twenty feet high. He looks at one of the warning lights on the fence. It's out. He picks up a stick and pokes the wire. No sparks fly.

Still not trusting the fence, he pokes it with a finger. He lays both hands on a cable and closes his fingers around it. Nothing.

GRANT

Power's still off. It's a pretty big climb, though. You guys think you can make it?

TIM

Nope.

103 CONTINUED:

103

LEX

Way too high.

Far in the distance, the T-rex ROARS. Without a second's delay, both kids leap to their feet.

CUT TO:

104 EXT PATH DAY

104

ELLIE and MULDOON step onto the path that leads through the jungle toward the maintenance shed. The gate CLANGS shut behind them, making them both jump.

104 CONTINUED:

104

The main compound feels different now -- it belongs more to the jungle than to civilization. Muldoon has the big gun in his hands, the other slung over his shoulder. They start off down the path, moving quickly.

104A EXT PATH DAY

104A

MULDOON and ELLIE emerge from one path and come into a slightly more open area. Up ahead, the huge raptor pen stands silently, surrounded and penetrated by jungle, the abandoned goon tower looming over it like a haunted house.

Ellie slows as they approach it, scared.

MULDOON

Keep moving!

Ellie steps it up. But as they draw closer, both of them stop in their tracks, staring silently at the fence that surrounds the pen.

There's a hole in it.

The metal is twisted, as if gnawed, and the hole is large enough for an animal to slip through.

ELLIE

Oh God. Aw, God.

MULDOON

The shutdown turned off all the fences. Damn it! Even Nedry knew better than to mess with the raptor fence.

He squats near the hole, looking at the ground. He sees three sets of footprints. He follows them with his eyes. They head off in different directions, but all end up in the jungle foliage on either side of them.

ELLIE

I can see the shed from here! We can make it if we run!

Muldoon turns his head sharply, as if he heard something. He stands up, very slowly.

MULDOON

No. We can't.

ELLIE

Why not?!

MULDOON

Because we're being hunted. From the bushes to your left.

104A CONTINUED:

104A

Ellie turns, very slowly, to face the bushes. At first, she doesn't see anything, but then there's something very faint, like a shifting of the light, and a shadow seems to move in the bush, RUSTLING the leaves.

MULDOON

It's all right.

ELLIE

Like hell it is!

Muldoon raises his weapon slowly to his shoulder.

MULDOON

Run, towards the shed. I've got her.

Ellie backs up, down the path, slowly. Muldoon follows behind her, keeping his gun trained on the bushes. The shadow in the bushes moves too, at an even pace with them.

MULDOON (cont'd)

Keep going!

Ellie keeps on, towards the shed, but Muldoon stays where he is. The shadow in the bushes slows and stops. Muldoon raises his gun and aims, but can't get a clear shot.

MULDOON (cont'd)

One shot -- just one shot --

ZIP! The raptor moves, fast as hell, a few feet backward in the foliage, as if daring Muldoon to come in after her.

He does.

ON THE PATH,

Ellie runs as fast as she possibly can, a real broken-field sprint, hopping over branches, flying across the open areas at top speed.

As she nears the maintenance shed, she stumbles and looks down.

She's running in a set of animal tracks. They head straight for the shed, then veer off to the right at the last second, heading into the swaying, moving jungle.

Ellie doesn't look back. She blasts through the open door of the maintenance shed and SLAMS it behind her.

CUT TO:

104B EXT JUNGLE DAY

104B

A hand comes into the foreground and takes a firm grip on one of the tight fence cables. Another hand follows it, then a third.

GRANT, TIM, and LEX climb over the fence, pulling themselves up by the tension wires, crawling right past a "DANGER!" sign that tells them this fence ought to be electrified.

CUT TO:

105 INT BUNKER DAY

105

MALCOLM and HAMMOND hover over a complex diagram of the maintenance shed that's spread out in front of them. Hammond clutches the radio in his hands, almost praying to it. Finally, it CRACKLES.

ELLIE (o.s.)

I'm in.

106 INT MAINTENANCE SHED DAY

106

ELLIE is at the doorway of the maintenance shed, breathing hard from fear, listening to Hammond's VOICE on the radio.

HAMMOND (o.s.)

Okay -- straight ahead there's a metal staircase. Go down it.

(X)

(X)

(X)

Ellie does, heading down into the room, shining the flashlight ahead of her. There is a maze of pipes, ducts, and electrical work on both sides of her.

107 EXT JUNGLE DAY

107

GRANT and the KIDS are now near the top of the fence. A warning light, next to Grant's hand, is still out.

108 INT SHED DAY

108

ELLIE walks straight ahead from the bottom of the metal stairs.

108 CONTINUED:

108

HAMMOND (o.s.)
After twenty or twenty-five feet, you'll come to a T -- go to the left.

MALCOLM (o.s.)
Just have her follow the main cable,
John --

HAMMOND (o.s.)
I know how to read a schematic, get your hand out of there.

Ellie keeps walking, nervous as hell. She looks around.
Awfully dark down here.

ELLIE
I'm still going to the -- damn! Dead end!

HAMMOND (o.s.)
Wait a minute, wait a minute, there was a right back there somewhere --

MALCOLM (o.s.)
Ellie?! Look above you -- there should be a large bundle of cable and white PVC tubing all leading in the same direction! Just follow that!

Ellie looks up, finds the bunch of cable, and follows it into a main corridor.

ELLIE
(into radio)
I'm following it down a straight passageway!

HAMMOND (o.s.)
Good! Keep going, the cable will terminate in a big aluminum box with air vents in the sides!

Walking fast, Ellie follows the tubing to the end of the corridor, where she sees just such a box, with a door hanging open on the left side.

ELLIE
(into radio)
Okay -- I'm there. Now what?

108

She pushes the door open even further, revealing a vast array of breakers and switches inside.

HAMMOND (o.s.)

You can't throw the main switch by hand, you have to pump up the primer handle to give you a charge. It's a large, flat, gray --

ELLIE

I see it!

109 EXT JUNGLE DAY

109

GRANT and the KIDS swing over the top of the fence and start their climb down.

110 INT SHED DAY

110

ELLIE pumps the gray handle, which is sluggish. Above it, a small white indicator CHINGS over from "discharged" to "charged."

ELLIE

Ready!

HAMMOND (o.s.)

Good! Under the words "contact position" there's a round green button that says "push to close!" Push it!

110 CONTINUED:

110

Ellie does. The "contact position" light CHINGS over to "closed" and lights start to go on all over the panel.

111 EXT JUNGLE DAY

111

A warning light next to GRANT's head flashes once, coming back to life. Grant's eyes go wide. He looks at his hands, which are straddling one of the danger signs. He lets go, dropping the last few feet to the ground.

He looks up at the KIDS, still near the top.

GRANT
Get off the fence! NOW!

112 INT SHED DAY

112

ELLIE watches as a column of twelve white indicator lights flash on the control panel, each one for a different area of the park.

HAMMOND (o.s.)
The white buttons turn on the individual park systems! Hit them all!

Ellie starts punching quickly, and as she hits each one it stops flashing. As Ellie punches the buttons, our eyes go to one near the end of the row.

It's marked "Perimeter Fences."

113 INT JUNGLE DAY

113

LEX drops the last few feet off the fence and GRANT catches her. He looks up at TIM, who is still far up -- near the top, in fact, and he has slowed considerably.

GRANT
Come on, Tim!

Grant looks at the warning light, which is now flashing faster.

GRANT (cont'd)
MOVE, DAMN IT!

114 INT SHED DAY

114

ELLIE keeps pushing the buttons. She's getting closer to the button for the fences.

115 EXT JUNGLE DAY

115

TIM, terrified, has frozen where he is.

115 CONTINUED:

115

GRANT

116 INT SHED DAY

ELLIE's still punching the buttons, now only a half dozen away from the one for the fences, now five away, now three --

117 EXT JUNGLE DAY

117

GRANT and LEX are both screaming at TIM.

GRANT
I'll catch you! JUST LET GO!

Tim, regaining himself, starts to climb down.

TIM
I'm okay! I'm going again!

GRANT & LEX
NO NO NO IT'S TOO LATE LET GO LET GO LET GO!

118 INT MAINTENANCE SHED DAY

118

ELLIE finally pushes the button for the fences. It stops flashing and lights up, a brilliant white.

119 EXT JUNGLE DAY

119

The fence HUMS slightly as it awakens. GRANT and LEX are screaming at TIM, but he's still climbing down toward them.

TIM
I can make it I --

With a low, loud, frightening BUZZ --

-- the fence comes alive.

POW! Tim is cut off in mid-sentence and literally thrown from the fence. He SLAMS to the ground, next to a mess of fallen tree branches from the storm that are leaning against the fence. The branches SIZZLE and EXPLODE, bursting into flame.

GRANT
TIM!!

They race over to him and turn him over. Tim's completely white, and his hands are burned. But Grant immediately notices another, much larger problem.

119 CONTINUED:

119

GRANT (cont'd.)
He's not breathing.

CUT TO:

120 INT SHED DAY

120

ELLIE watches as the banks of fluorescent lights in the maintenance shed come on, one by one.

ELLIE
Thank God.

The lights are going on in rows, coming closer and closer to her. Finally, her row comes on. She blinks a little from the light and sees --

-- a raptor, right there, behind the control panel! It SLASHES, taking a lunging sweep at Ellie, but gets stuck, its feet and legs tangled in the maze of pipes on the floor.

Ellie SHOUTS and falls back into the pipes on the other side of the aisle.

A dead arm falls onto her shoulder. Ellie SCREAMS and looks up. RAY ARNOLD is there, or what's left of him, stuck in the tangle of pipes. His arm falls to the ground, his body stays put, and Ellie takes off, running as fast as she can, back the way she came. She SLAMS a wire mesh door closed behind her.

The raptor untangles itself from the pipes and gives chase, SLASHING easily through the wire mesh with one of its talons. This is our first good look at one of these things, and if it weren't so terrifying, we could admit that it truly is a thing of beauty. It's the biggest of the raptors, intensely muscled, coordinated as hell, a smoothly designed predator.

But Ellie's in no mood to admire it. The raptor must be right behind her, she can hear the CLICKING and CLANGING as it scrambles up the stairs, but she doesn't look back. She reaches the stairs and hits them, hard, flying up them. Her flashlight tumbles from her belt, dragging behind her on its cord.

Suddenly, a tug -- she's held back. The dragging flashlight is caught behind her. She yanks at the buckle on the battery belt and rips it off. It CLANGS to the floor. She pushes on.

She reaches the top, throws open the door, hurls herself outside --

121 EXT SHED DAY

SNARLS at her from near the top of the stairs.

TIM is still unmoving. GRANT has ripped his shirt open and is performing CPR, alternately compressing Timmy's chest fifteen times, quickly, and breathing into his mouth twice.

LEX is freaking out.

LEX

Oh my God, he's dead, oh my God --

Fifteen compressions. Two deep breaths.

GRANT

No, damn it, no!

Fifteen compressions. Two deep breaths.

GRANT (cont'd)

Come on, Tim, TIM, TIMMY!

Fifteen com --

LEX

Timmy!

Tim is dazed, unable to speak. Grant gives him a quick examination, looking for broken bones, not finding any. He looks at Tim's hands, burned by the fence. He RIPS two chunks of cloth from his shirt and wraps them delicately.

CUT TO:

121B EXT JUNGLE DAY

121B

ROBERT MULDOON creeps slowly through the jungle foliage, tracking his prey. He ducks and walks through a hollow log, underneath a fallen tree, following the RUSTLING sound up ahead of him.

He can see just a trace of the raptor's gray flesh as it moves up ahead, staying camouflaged enough to deny him a decent shot. Thinking he's got a moment, Muldoon raises his gun to take aim --

-- but the raptor darts away, deeper into the jungle.

Muldoon follows. The raptor stops again, and so does he. He knows it's somewhere up ahead, hidden in the foliage. A snake slithers across a tree branch, past what looks like the large iris of a flower.

The flower blinks.

It's the eye of the raptor. Muldoon sees it. He raises his gun.

121B CONTINUED:

121B

Instead of running away again, the raptor rises slowly out of the brush, fully revealing itself to Muldoon, HISSING at him.

The corners of Muldoon's mouth twitch up into a smile. He draws a bead on the animal.

MULDOON

Gotcha.

His finger tenses on the trigger. Suddenly, his smile vanishes, both eyes pop open, and a terrible thought sweeps across his face. His eyes flick to the side --

-- which is where the attack comes from. With a ROAR, another raptor comes flashing out of nowhere and pounces on him. The gun BLASTS, but wildly, and the raptor's claw SLASHES through Muldoon's midsection.

Muldoon SCREAMS and falls back, the raptor locked on top of him, all tooth and claw all of a sudden.

As the second raptor makes the kill, the first raptor strides slowly forward and watches approvingly.

It throws its head back and SNARLS.

CUT TO:

122 INT VISITOR'S CENTER DAY

122

GRANT, TIM, and LEX come into the deserted visitor's center. The jungle seems to be taking over this place, fallen branches poking in from outside. A large sign that says "When Dinosaurs Ruled the Earth . . ." droops overhead. Grant now carries Tim, who is weakened but conscious.

GRANT

HELLO?!

But nobody answers.

123 INT RESTAURANT DAY

123

GRANT, TIM, and LEX come into the restaurant. Grant carefully sets Tim in a chair at one of the tables. Lex sits next to him.

GRANT

I need to find the others and get you to a doctor. Will you take care of your brother for me, Lex?

LEX

(scared as hell)

Yes.

123 CONTINUED:

123

Grant nods. He looks at Tim for a second.

GRANT
Your hair's all standing up.

He gently rearranges Tim's hair, which is wild, all over his head. Tim looks up at him weakly and manages a smile. Grant smiles back.

GRANT (cont'd)
Big Tim, the human piece of toast.

Tim laughs. Grant pauses for a second, as if debating something -- -- then gives Tim a quick kiss on the forehead. He does the same for Lex, and straightens up.

Be right back. Promise.

He leaves. As he goes across the lobby of the visitor's center and outside, they can see his silhouette, moving through a translucent mural that depicts dinosaurs in various natural settings. It's quiet for a second as Lex and Tim just look at each other.

LEX
Are you hungry, Timmy?

Tim shrugs, pretty weakened, sort of draped over his chair.

LEX (cont'd)
You stay here, I'll get you something.

She goes across the room, to an all-you-can-eat counter on the other side, and quickly piles some food on a tray. She brings it back to the table.

LEX (cont'd)
Here, try some Jell-O.

She digs into the food, coming up with a spoonful of lime Jell-O from a dinosaur egg plastic cup. She holds it out toward Timmy, to feed him --

-- but her hand freezes halfway to his mouth. Tim looks up, and sees the expression on her face. She's staring over his shoulder, eyes wide, the Jell-O quivering in her shaking hand.

TIM What?

LEX
Something's here.

123 CONTINUED: 2

123

Tim turns around. Behind him, one of the silhouettes on the mural is a raptor, in a hunting pose.

While they stare, the silhouette of a real raptor moves out from behind it and creeps forward, in the lobby of the visitor's center.

LEX (cont'd)

Can you run?!

TIM

I don't think so!

Lex quickly loops an arm under his, hauls him to his feet, and races into the kitchen with him.

124 INT KITCHEN DAY

124

LEX pulls the shiny metal door shut as quietly as she can. It latches with a distinctive CLICK, but there's no lock.

She runs to a panel of light switches and kills them all, plunging the room into semidarkness. She helps TIM down an aisle and they hide at the end, behind a counter, breathing hard.

A raptor's head pops into view, visible through the round window in the middle of the restaurant door. It just looks for a moment, its breath steaming up the window.

THROUGH THE WINDOW,

as the steam evaporates, the raptor can see a part of Tim that is not entirely hidden by the counter.

IN THE KITCHEN,

TIM and LEX remain frozen in fear as the raptor first SNIFFS at the bottom of the door, then THUMPS its head against it.

But the door doesn't budge.

137 CUT TO:

125 EXT COMPOUND DAY

125

GRANT walks quickly down the narrow path toward Hammond's compound, eyes darting from side to side, not exactly sure where he's going. From far off, he hears someone SHOUTING to him.

He turns. He sees ELLIE, standing inside the gate that surrounds Hammond's quarters and the bunker. She's waving to him, SHOUTING something too faint for him to hear.

125 CONTINUED:

125

He furrows his brow and walks toward her. She SHOUTS louder. He walks faster. He's closer now, and he can finally make out what she's shouting.

ELLIE

RUN!

Grant takes off, toward the gate, not even looking back. He races up, Ellie holds it open, he flies through, and she CLANGS it shut behind him.

He turns and she runs into his arms. They hold each other tightly for a moment, the best embrace they've ever shared, before a thought crosses Ellie's face like a thundercloud and she pulls away from him. (X)

ELLIE (cont'd)

Where are the kids?!

126 INT BUNKER DAY

126

JOHN HAMMOND stands between GRANT and ELLIE in the bunker, watching as Grant RACKS the bolt on a ten gauge shotgun.

GRANT

(to Ellie)

There's just the two raptors, right?
You're sure the third one's contained? R

ELLIE

Unless they figured out how to open doors.

CUT TO:

127 INT KITCHEN DAY

127

OUTSIDE THE DOOR TO THE KITCHEN,

the raptor stares down at the door handle, cocking its head curiously. It SNARLS and bumps the door handle with its head, but that doesn't do anything.

It reaches out, toward the handle, with one clawed hand.

INSIDE THE KITCHEN,

Tim and Lex stare in shock as the door handle starts to turn.

127 CONTINUED:

127

The door opens. The first raptor stands in the doorway, draws itself up to its full height, and looks around the kitchen.

It SNARLS. It takes a few steps into the kitchen.

Now, a second raptor joins it in the doorway. They move into the room, brushing against each other. The first raptor SNAPS at the second, as if to say "keep your distance."

127 CONTINUED:

127

Now the raptors split, taking two different aisles. Tim and Lex crawl away, Tim awfully weak now, down a third aisle, around the other side of the counter from the raptors, moving in the opposite direction.

As Tim and Lex pass the raptors, one of the raptor's tails SMACKS into some pots and pans, knocking them off the counter. They fall on the kids, who manage to keep quiet.

The kids keep moving as one raptor dips down, looking through an open cabinet to inspect the racket.

Tim and Lex reach the end of the aisle and round a corner -- but Timmy's falling behind now, and he accidentally brushes against some hanging kitchen utensils.

Both raptors turn. One jumps onto the counter, knocking more kitchen stuff to the floor. A pot lid CLATTERS to a stop, and the strange metallic sounds confuse the raptors for a moment.

But then they move, in Tim's direction, SNIFFING, heading right for him. The raptor on the floor is just about to turn the corner to where Tim sits, exposed and exhausted, but both raptors suddenly stop, hearing a CLICKING sound from the other end of the aisle.

It's Lex, TAPPING a spoon on the floor to distract them. The raptor on the counter jumps down and starts cautiously toward Lex's noise, leaving Tim.

Lex sees a steel cabinet behind her, its sliding door slid up and open. She crawls inside, silently.

Time sees the raptors make the turn toward Lex, SMASHING more stuff around with their tails. He turns and sees a walk-in freezer in the far wall, with a pin-locking handle.

As Lex tries to pull the overhead door to the cabinet shut, one of the raptors rounds a corner and sees her reflection on a shiny cabinet front. Lex tries frantically to lower the cabinet door, but it's stuck.

Tim takes a few deep breaths, summons what little strength he has left -- -- and makes a break for the walk-in freezer. He's limping, dragging himself, really moving like wounded prey now, and -- -- the other raptor spots him. Both raptors go into a pre-attack crouch -- -- and they pounce, one toward each of the kids.

Lex tugs on the cover, to no avail -- -- Tim's raptor charges after him, just open floor space between them --

127

-- and Lex's raptor THUDS into the shiny surface bearing her reflection. It chased the wrong image. It sags to the floor, semiconscious.

At the other end of the aisle, the real Lex SCREAMS as the other raptor bears down on Tim. Tim reaches the freezer, rips the door open, and falls inside. The floor is cold and slick and his feet go right out from under him. He sprawls across the floor, rolls out of the way -- -- and the raptor slips and falls into the freezer too, right past him.

Tim drags himself to his feet and out of the freezer.

The raptor makes one last lunge, right on Tim's heels, its mouth wide open --

-- but Lex SLAMS the door shut just as Tim is clear. The raptor's head is caught for a second, but it SNARLS, retreats, and Lex gets the door shut all the way.

The raptor ROARS and SCREAMS inside. Tim jams the pin through the handle, locking it in.

Now the other raptor staggers to its feet. Groggy, it SMASHES into stuff all over the kitchen. Lex throws her arm around Tim again for support and they take off.

128 INT RESTAURANT DAY

128

TIM and LEX hurry across the restaurant. They stare back over their shoulders as they run, and a dark shape looms up in front of them that they don't even see. They CRASH into it, fall back to the floor, and look up.

It's GRANT and ELLIE. They reach down and yank the kids to their feet.

GRANT

Let's go!

129 INT SECOND FLOOR CORRIDOR DAY

129

GRANT, ELLIE, and the KIDS race down the second floor corridor toward the control room, Grant carrying Tim again.

130 INT CONTROL ROOM DAY

130

The door to the control room SMACKS open. GRANT, ELLIE, and the KIDS burst in. The others head straight for the main computer terminal, but Grant deposits Tim in a chair and races back to the door to lock it.

LEX

We can call for help?!

130 CONTINUED:

130

ELLIE

As soon as we reboot the system!

She sits at the computer and studies the screen. It's flashing at her, dominated by a maze-like grid. She studies it, confused.

GRANT

(at the door)

Hey, the latch panel doesn't --

POW! Something hits the door, hard, from outside, the kids SCREAM, Grant hurls his back against it --

ELLIE

ALAN!

-- and Ellie leaps out of the chair and races over to the door to help him. A raptor SNARLS and SNAPS, RAMMING itself against the door, trying to force its way into the control room. It's all Ellie and Grant can do to hold the door against the onslaught, but it bucks against them viciously.

GRANT

(to Ellie)

The door locks! Boot up the door locks!

ELLIE

You can't hold the door by yourself!

OVER AT THE COMPUTER,

Lex slides quickly into the command chair at Nedry's terminal. She stares at the screen for a moment --

-- and then her fingers start to fly over the keyboard. Grant and Ellie watch, amazed, as the computer starts to respond to Lex's commands.

TIM

Go, Lexie!

Reaching another menu, Lex spots a box on the screen that reads "DOOR INTEGRITY." She reaches out and touches it. The screen BEEPS --

-- and the door latch panel BUZZES. Grant and Ellie put everything they have into it and finally the door SNICKS shut, locking the raptor outside.

CUT TO:

131 INT BUNKER DAY

131

A phone RINGS. HAMMOND and MALCOLM look at each other, wide-eyed. Hammond lunges for it.

HAMMOND

Grant?!

132 INT CONTROL ROOM DAY

132

All the screens in the control room have come alive now, and data is scrolling by at incredible speed as every remaining system in the park comes back on line. ELLIE is at the keyboard with LEX now, figuring things out, and GRANT is on the phone.

GRANT

We've got the phones back on! Call the mainland!

133 INT BUNKER DAY

133

HAMMOND is on the phone, MALCOLM is trying to listen.

GRANT (o.s.)

Have them send the helicopter --

Suddenly Grant stops in the middle of his sentence. A SCREAM cuts in, then three GUNSHOTS, fast, and a horrible CLUNKING as the phone is dropped.

HAMMOND

Grant! Grant!

But there's no answer.

134 INT CONTROL ROOM DAY

134

Grant's rifle lies on the floor, smoking, several spent shells alongside it. The front window of the control room has three huge impact shatter patterns in the glass, where the gunshots hit.

Feet race up a ladder as GRANT helps TIM up through a ceiling panel and into the ceiling crawl space.

LEX and ELLIE look down from the ceiling, where they are already. Grant looks over to the front window, scared as hell, just as -- -- it SHATTERS in a shower of glass and a raptor EXPLODES into the control room. It lands on its feet on a work station console, images from wall projectors falling across its head.

Grant vaults himself up into the ceiling.

The raptor tilts its head curiously, looking up at the swaying ceiling.

135 IN THE CRAWL SPACE,

135

Grant, Ellie, and the kids dash across the ceiling panels, moving fast, but carefully, so as not to break through.

SMASH! The raptor's head bursts through a panel behind them, leaping up at them, SNARLING and SNAPPING.

It drops down again, and they keep moving forward. But now it ERUPTS through a panel right in front of them. They SCREAM, its teeth CLICK just inches in front of Ellie --

-- but the raptor can't hold itself up there, and it falls back to the floor of the control room.

Grant looks around frantically and spots an air duct a few yards away.

GRANT
Into the air duct!

They move for it, but the raptor's head CRASHES through the ceiling again, this time right underneath Lex.

She SCREAMS and is lifted up, on top of its head, and pinned to the ceiling above.

Grant SMASHES his boot into the side of the raptor's head. The raptor SNAPS at him, latching onto his boot for a second before the raptor's own weight pulls it back down, wrenching Grant's ankle and RIPPING the sole of his boot clean off.

Lex goes down with the raptor, spinning into the hole in the ceiling, tumbling down. Grant grabs her by the collar at the last second, but Lex dangles there, above the raptor.

The animal flips over onto its feet and crouches to pounce just as Grant summons his strength and jerks Lex back into the ceiling.

The raptor springs, but too late. Grant and Lex scramble over to the air duct and join Ellie and Tim inside it.

136 IN THE AIR DUCT,

136

Grant, Ellie, and the kids crawl through the air duct as fast as they can, the thin metal BOOMING and creasing around them. They reach a metal grate that shows daylight beneath. Grant reaches out and pulls it up.

Through the grate, they can see the lobby of the visitor's center below. They're directly above the skeletons of the dinosaurs, the T-rex and the sauropod it's attacking. The unfinished skeletons are surrounded by scaffolding.

GRANT
Down through here!

137 INT ROTUNDA DAY

137

Grant and the others climb down out of the air duct and onto a platform of the scaffolding that stands alongside the skeletons. It's much too far to jump to the lobby floor, so Grant climbs gingerly onto the nearest skeleton, the towering brachiosaur.

GRANT

It's okay! Come on!

Ellie helps the kids across to the skeleton, Grant pulls them over, and then Ellie follows. Up in the ceiling, the skeleton's anchor bolts GROAN in the plaster, starting to pull free.

But for now, they hold. Grant and the others climb down, as fast as they can.

ELLIE

We're gonna make it, we're gonna --

But she is cut off by the piercing, painful SHRIEK of claws on metal --

-- as the raptor flies out of the air duct above them.

They SHOUT as the raptor lands on the scaffold platform, which sways from the impact. It kicks several buckets of paint off the edge, which hit the floor and explode, sending paint flying everywhere.

GRANT

GO DOWN DOWN DOWN GO GO!

They all climb as fast as they can, but the raptor SNARLS and springs. It lands on the neck of the brachiosaur, not far above them. It looks down at them, opens its mouth, coils to spring--

--and the anchor bolts in the ceiling rip free, ZINGING past them like bullets. The entire brachiosaur skeleton collapses like a house of cards, sending Grant, Ellie, the kids, and the raptor tumbling to the floor in a cascade of SPLINTERING bones.

They land, hard. The raptor lands on its back a few yards away and staggers for a moment, the wind knocked out of it. Grant and Ellie haul the kids to their feet, turn to run out of the main entrance -- -- and stop dead in their tracks.

The other raptor stands in the doorway, blocking their path. (X)

Grant and the others freeze, nothing to fight with and nowhere hide now. (X)
(X)

The raptor HISSES and goes into its pre-attack crouch -- (X)

-- the other raptor finally regains its feet and crouches as well -- (X)
(X)

-- and there is a hideous ripping sound that echoes through the lobby. A dark shadow falls over all of them -- (X)
(X)

-- and a massive head descends from above. A set of six foot jaws clamp down on the raptor, eighteen-inch teeth sink into its sides, and helpless animal HOWLS in agony as it is lifted up, up, up, off the floor of the lobby. (X)
(X) (X)
(X)

Grant and the others look up in stunned amazement, following the raptor as it goes up in the air, now twenty feet off the lobby floor, held fast in the mouth of -- (X)
(X)
(X)

-- TYRANNOSAURUS REX! It stands in the entrance to the lobby in front of the massive hole it ripped through the Visqueen wall. It shakes its enormous head once, BREAKING the neck of the velociraptor, then drops it, dead, to the floor at its feet. (X)
(X)
(X) (X)
(X)

Through the open front door of the Visitor's Center, Grant sees a Jeep SQUEAL to a halt in front, Hammond and Malcolm inside. (X)
(X)

The second raptor turns from the humans and lunges at the Rex's side, leaping twelve feet into the air and rending the Rex's flesh as it comes down, slashing it open with its six-inch claw. (X)
(X)
(X)
(X)

The Rex BELLOWS in pain as Grant, Ellie, and the kids skirt the battle royale on the lobby floor and dash out of the door of the Visitor's Center. (X)
(X)
(X)

The Rex turns on the raptor, eyes raging, and strikes, just once, quickly, as fast as the head of a serpent. It catches the raptor by its thick back end, puts one of its enormous feet down on it, and tears. (X)
(X)
(X)
(X)

It rips the last velociraptor in half. (X)

137A OUTSIDE THE VISITOR'S CENTER

137A (X)

Grant and the others practically fall into the jeep, which is already moving. (X)
(X)

Through the huge doorway to the Visitor's Center, they see the Rex as it turns its attention back to them. It whirls around, and as it does, its heavy tail counterbalances, SNAPPING the other way, sweeping across the lobby and SMASHING right through the T-rex skeleton. (X)
(X)
(X) (X)
(X)

The skeleton collapses in an explosion of bones, falling to pieces around the living Rex. Hammond pauses the jeep a short distance away, as the Rex doesn't appear to be about to give chase. They all stare at the Rex, standing so majestically in the middle of the lobby, both skeletons swept away, SNAPPING like matchsticks as they settle around it. (X)
(X)
(X) (X) (X)
(X)

137B IN THE LOBBY

137B (X)

The Rex draws itself up to its full height -- (X)

-- and ROARS. (X)

The sound is deafening, and the vibrations rattle the entire Visitor's Center. The sign which dangled over the lobby by its one remaining wire finally falls, CLATTERING to the floor at the Rex's feet, face up. (X)
(X)
(X)
(X)

"When Dinosaurs Ruled the Earth", it says. (X)

137C OUTSIDE

137C (X)

Grant turns to Hammond. (X)

GRANT

By the way, Mr. Hammond -- after careful consideration, I've decided not to endorse Jurassic Park.

HAMMOND

After careful consideration -- so have I. (X)

He hits the gas and the Jeep takes off, the Visitor's Center, and the T-rex, fading into the distance.

CUT TO:

138 EXT HELICOPTER LANDING PAD DAY

138

The helicopter rotors whirl to life as the chopper waits on the landing cross. Two jeeps ROAR up next to it, one driven by GRANT, the other by HAMMOND.

139 INT HELICOPTER DAY

139

One by one, they climb aboard, their faces white from their ordeal.

MALCOLM comes on first, helped by HAMMOND.

Then ELLIE, holding LEX by the hand.

And then GRANT, carrying TIM.

No one speaks. The helicopter takes off immediately. As they rise into the air, they stare out the windows, looking down on the park as it spreads out below them.

140 DOWN IN THE PARK,

140

the helicopter soars over a vast plain. The tyrannosaur, which is still feeding on the remains of the dinosaur it ran down and killed, looks up.

It throws its head back and ROARS, waving its little forelimbs at the strange thing in frustration. As the helicopter moves off, the T-rex just stares, silently, with huge, yellowing eyes. It's a moment of utter bewilderment for the rex, and we almost feel -- -- sad for her.

141 BACK IN THE HELICOPTER,

141

Hammond looks down at the park, his eyes full. He looks over at the kids.

They're in the back of the helicopter, with Grant. As they look out the windows, Grant almost absently has his arm around both kids.

Now Ellie looks at him. Both he and the kids seem so natural, so obviously comfortable and trusting with each other. She smiles.

She moves over and joins them, and Grant puts his other arm around her. Ellie takes his hand tightly in both of hers.

Lex reaches up, determined and a little jealous, and takes Grant's other hand in both of hers, just like Ellie.

The four of them sit that way, in the back of the helicopter, huddled together. Survivors.

Grant looks out the window.

The helicopter sweeps low over a huge flock of sea birds that's feeding on a school of fish. As the chopper ROARS near, it kicks up the flock. Hundreds of birds sail off in all directions, powerful and graceful.

Grant looks at the birds and breaks into a wide grin. He nudges Tim, who sits next to him, staring out at them.

Tim smiles too.

The birds reform as a flock again and fly straight into the sun.

FADE OUT.
